

BRITISH HURL AIR ARMADA AT NAZI BASE IN WAVES FOR SEVEN DEVASTATING HOURS

RIVERS' LAWYERS TAKE COURT FIGHT TO NEW ORLEANS

Hearing Set for Today; Row Enters Senate Debate; Cotton Ed Smith Advocates Secession.

Governor Rivers' corps of lawyers were en route to New Orleans last night, where today they will ask the federal circuit court of appeals to grant a supersedeas from the contempt of court ruling of Judge Bascom S. Deaver and thereby stay the scheduled appearance of the Governor before Judge Deaver at Macon at 10 o'clock Friday morning.

In New Orleans, Judge Samuel H. Sibley, a member of the circuit court, announced that he had agreed to hear the Rivers plea at 8:30 o'clock this morning and that Judges Joseph C. Hutcheson and E. R. Holmes probably would sit with him on the case.

Judge Deaver, following a protracted hearing at Valdosta Monday, denied the request for the supersedeas.

To Appeal First Order.

The Governor said yesterday that he had instructed his attorneys to give notice of appeal of the original Deaver order, enjoining the Governor and Adjutant General John E. Stoddard from preventing W. L. Miller from returning to the office of chairman of the highway board, a post from which he was evicted on December 2.

Attorney General Ellis Arnall, who has headed Governor Rivers' legal staff since the contempt of court citation first was issued, announced that he would be present to attend the hearing in New Orleans, but would be represented by Assistant Attorney General Herschel E. Smith, whose appearance would be augmented by Attorneys J. B. Copeland, of Valdosta, and B. D. Murphy and Henry Troutman, of Atlanta, special assistants to the attorney general.

Arnall Notifies Branch.

Arnall notified James A. Branch, chief counsel for Miller, of the scheduled hearing in New Orleans, and Branch is expected to be present.

Meanwhile, the Georgia highway situation and its repercussions again broke into debate on the floor of the United States senate yesterday with Senators E. D. Smith, of South Carolina; Tom Connally, of Texas, and Josiah W. Bailey, of North Carolina, referring to the use of troops to combat orders of the courts.

Senator Smith said: "Within the sovereign rights he (Rivers) has, as Governor, and the limitation of the power of the federal courts over the states, he would not go to jail. If I were the Governor, I would fight it out in the Georgia courts. I would not go to the supreme court. As it is now constituted, he must be worse off if he went there than he is now. I think I would advise him to stay away from the supreme court."

Senator Connally interrupted the South Carolinian to say that Governor Rivers "could probably get a very quick test of the matter by applying to the supreme court of

Smoke Pours From Whitehall Street Building

Smoke and flames poured out of the Carroll Furniture Company store on Whitehall street at midday yesterday, as all downtown apparatus of the Atlanta fire department was summoned to battle the blaze.

SIX PERSONS HURT IN BLAZING STORE

Fire Sweeps Carroll
Furniture Firm; Loss
Estimated at $60,000.

Six persons, three of whom were firemen, were injured early yesterday in the second spectacular fire since Saturday as flames swept through the Carroll Furniture Company, 149-153 Whitehall street, with a loss estimated by L. G. Sherman, manager, at $60,000.

Those hurt are:
Lieutenant J. B. McDaniel, of Fire Station No. 7, arm cut badly. Still at Grady hospital.

Fireman John Scott, of Station No. 7, badly cut hand. He too was still at Grady.

Buddy Emanuel and Joe Tomassi, employees at the store, who were hurt when they jumped to safety from a second-floor window.

R. T. Johnson, employee of the Georgia Power Company, who was overcome by smoke when he attempted to re-enter the building to warn fellow workmen about the fire.

Fireman F. J. Jones, of Station No. 17, who stuck a nail in his foot as he fought the blaze from the inside of the building.

The latter four persons received emergency treatment at the Grady hospital clinic, but were dismissed. Eleven pumpers and half a dozen aerial trucks and other equipment fought the blaze for more than two hours before it finally was brought under control.

Thousands of spectators lined Whitehall street watching the battle. Traffic was snarled for an hour and hundreds of school children joined the crowds. Police threw lines around the scene, but even then had difficulty handling the milling mobs.

Fire fighters worked under a handicap because of billowing clouds of smoke which came for the most part from the finishing, upholstering and storage departments.

10 Witnesses Are Questioned In Wheelchel Campaign Probe

O. John Rogge Arrives From Louisiana; Paul
Carpenter Retained as Attorney for Congressman, But Has Nothing To Say.

Ten witnesses had been questioned yesterday by the federal grand jury as that body ended the second day of its investigation of the campaign expenses of Congressman B. Frank Wheelchel.

O. John Rogge, assistant attorney general of the United States, flew in from Shreveport, La., yesterday afternoon, a few hours after the grand jury had adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning.

Rogge conferred with Lawrence S. Camp, district attorney, and Louis Schwartz, Department of Justice attorney, last night.

In the meantime, Paul Carpenter, Atlanta lawyer and a former assistant district attorney, announced that he had been retained as attorney for Congressman Wheelchel.

"I understand that there is some sort of investigation going on but Congressman Wheelchel and I will have nothing to say until the grand jury completes its investigation," he stated.

Wheelchel was in Atlanta yesterday but was not called before the jury.

Among those who have been witnesses before the jury in the investigation are Ernest Hudson, of Ellijay; Haynie Brooks, of Cumming; the Rev. W. M. Warren, of Cumming; Truman L. Harris, of Ball Ground; James H. Holcomb, of Canton; Hulon E. Holcomb, of Ball Ground; Mrs. Estelle Grogan, of Ball Ground; Howell Brooke, of Canton; and E. W. Holcomb, of Ball Ground.

Previously, it was known that the grand jury had before it the itemized campaign expense accounts which Wheelchel had filed with R. W. Smith, clerk of the Hall county court in Gainesville, following his two successful races for representative from the ninth congressional district in 1934 and 1936. He has declared his intention of running for re-election this year.

Carpenter said yesterday he had not seen any bill of indictment naming Congressman Wheelchel and that he did not know what specific charge is being considered by the jury.

He said he "understood the in-

FLOGGERS STRIKE AGAIN, WHIPPING AN EX-POLICEMAN

Five Men in Auto Seize
Charles J. Schillings;
Take Him to Quarry and Give Him Beating.

Floggers struck again last night. The latest victim of "regulators" was Charles J. Schillings, 42, former veteran city policeman, who told police he was whipped with his own leather belt by five men after they had forced him into an automobile and took him to a lonely spot on Sylvan road.

Schillings said one of the floggers said: "Maybe now you'll go to work."

Schillings, who resigned from the police department last November, following his suspension on charges of drinking, was treated at Grady hospital. A half-dozen welts had been raised on his back.

Car Pulls to Curb.

According to the report of Radio Patrolmen M. Y. Rutherford and T. P. Epps, Schillings said he was walking on Hart street, near his home, 1736 Melrose drive, when a car drew to the curb.

Schillings said five men were in the car. The men in the rear opened the door, and said, "We'll take you to the corner, Charlie. Come in."

Schillings said he was pulled into the rear, his hat stuffed into a pocket and his leather jacket pulled up over his face. The car moved off, and stopped near the rock quarry on Sylvan road.

Beaten With Belt.

The men ordered Schillings out, walked him to a near-by woods, he said. There his belt was removed and he was given "eight or 10 licks." The men then left in the car, and Schillings walked to Sylvan road and Lakewood avenue, where the officers picked him up. He was then taken to the hospital.

Other than this, every official quarter concerned with the probe of Fulton county floggings was wholly silent last night, but usually informed circles in East Point expected definite developments.

It was learned there had been an additional arrest, although the officers concerned refused to reveal the details.

The arrested man, an East Point city employee, was listed at the Fulton tower as Raymond ("Slim") Bryan, 38, of 205 Hendrix avenue, East Point.

He was brought to the jail Monday night on a warrant charging assault with intent to murder, according to the jail record. The record also indicated the warrant had been issued by a justice of the peace, but the warrant had been returned to its author yesterday. It was explained, and his identity was not known.

According to the record County Patrolman J. W. Gilbert and Policeman E. M. Blount, of the East Point department, had obtained the warrant and the prisoner was brought to jail by County Patrolman John T. Carter.

Bryan, who was listed as a mechanic, six feet tall and weighing 185 pounds, was released yesterday in $5,000 bail furnished by a professional bondsman.

Questioned by a representative of The Constitution following his release, Bryan refused to discuss his arrest.

Members of the Fulton county police department refused to discuss the case and referred all queries to Solicitor General Boykin, who was out of town.

Chief Tyler, of the East Point force, said he was entirely unfamiliar with the details of the accusation.

Captain Ben W. Seabrook continued to press his investigation into the McDonough slaying three weeks ago of Benton Ford and Sara Rawls. Clues indicating a connection between this and the numerous floggings, including the fatal beating of Ike Gaston, were being followed, it was reported.

DATE FOR PRIMARY TO BE SET TUESDAY

Fulton Group Will Decide on Early, Late or Compromise Voting Day

The Fulton county Democratic executive committee will meet Tuesday afternoon to fix the date and rules for the county's 1940 primary. W. S. Northcutt, chairman, and J. Wilson Parker, secretary, announced yesterday afternoon.

Chief interest in the meeting will center about the date. The Atlanta League of Women Voters has been conducting an intensive campaign to have the primary held in September while another group which includes some officeholders and school officials favors an early primary.

In addition, there is a faction within the committee which leans toward a June 5 primary as a compromise between an early and late date.

Still another group is opposing the June 5 date on the grounds that political reverberation from the flogging investigation will work a hardship on present officeholders.

The executive committee's subcommittee, which conducted a public hearing on the question of an early and late primary last January, voted unanimously to recommend a September 6 primary. This committee was headed by Hughes Spaulding.

The committee is composed of 76 members from every section of the county.

The meeting, Parker said, will be held at 2:30 o'clock at the courthouse.

MUNITIONS DEPOT WRECKED AS TONS OF MISSILES FALL

Raid Largest in History on One Fortified Point; Attack Reply to Nazi Blow at Scapa Flow.

LONDON, March 20.—(Wednesday)—(AP)—A British air armada, hurling its might against the Nazis in perhaps the biggest raid in history on one fortified point, early today was dumping tons of bombs on the German island seaplane base of Sylt.

The raid began last night at 8 o'clock (1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Atlanta time) and an air ministry communique said it was still in progress with the bombers flying in relays at 3 o'clock this morning (8 o'clock last night, Atlanta time), seven hours later.

The first bombers, which lead the wave upon wave of Royal Air Force fliers, already had returned, the ministry said, and reported the "accurate bombing of objectives."

"Some searchlight and anti-aircraft gun opposition was encountered," the ministry said in its communique.

The raid was Great Britain's answer to Germany's attack Saturday night on her naval base at Scapa Flow in which the British said only one battleship was slightly damaged.

The Germans reported three of Britain's mightiest men-o'-war were believed to have been damaged along with two other warships.

To reach the German base at Hornum, on the Isle of Sylt, the armada flew across 350 miles of the North Sea.

82 Explosions.

Eye-witnesses on the near-by Danish island of Romoe said 82 bomb explosions and four tremendous, earth-jarring blasts had been heard up to 11 o'clock last night, and that one bomb "undoubtedly blew up an ammunition depot."

British News Agency reports also said the Hindenburg dam connecting Sylt with the mainland was bombed; that one British plane was shot down on the north coast of Sylt. The dam was reported hit in a previous British raid.

Whether this was the opening gun of an intense air offensive could only be conjectured, but there was an ominous tone in the warning of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain in the house of commons yesterday afternoon that Germany must bear "responsibility for the consequences" of Saturday night's raid on Britain's Scapa Flow.

Raided Before.

Sylt has been raided by British planes on previous occasions, but never with such intensity.

Chamberlain himself relayed wireless messages late last night from the leading bomber over Sylt to the house of commons, at the height of the attacks.

The Danish account of the raids said the British planes flew to the attack in small relays, diving from overhanging clouds in the midst of tremendous anti-aircraft fire and then dodging again into the clouds.

Jumping-Off Place.

Sylt is considered the jumping-off place for German planes such as those which raided Scapa Flow and which have repeatedly pun-

CIVITAN CLUB HEARS TALK ON SWINDLING

Better Business Bureau Head Says Rackets Cost Billions.

H. G. Mitchell, manager of the Atlanta Better Business Bureau, yesterday blamed the "general apathy" of the average business man toward fraudulent practices for the success of many confidence schemes.

In a talk before the Civitan Club, he pointed out that $2,000,000 annually is spent by Americans in dishonest financial transactions. "This," he said, "is because the business man does not recognize fraud when he sees it and fails to pay attention to what it means to business."

"It is a known fact," Mr. Mitchell said, "that Atlanta has just so much income. Any amount of this which is diverted from legitimate enterprises to racketeers is just that much loss."

He said that recently a prominent Atlantan lost $4,500 in the "Mexican prisoner" racket, which is over 100 years old.

"The only sensible thing to do is to investigate thoroughly any offer which has an unknown quality about it. As a general rule remember you can't get something for nothing," he said.

INJUNCTION HALTS GRADING OF ROAD

Trespassing of WPA Workers Is Charged.

Grading work on the Old County Line road in north Fulton county was halted yesterday under a temporary restraining order handed down by Judge E. E. Pomeroy of Fulton superior court. The injunction was granted on a petition filed by the Forsyth County Electrical Membership Corporation which set out that WPA workers under supervision of the commission are trespassing on its property in relocating the road in the vicinity of New Hope church.

O. John Rogge, Nemesis of Political Grafters, Flies Here To Confer With U. S. Attorney Camp

Prosecutor of Louisiana Figures To Be Here for Two Days.

O. John Rogge, the man who was the spearhead of the federal government's attack on graft and corruption in the state of Louisiana, arrived in Atlanta yesterday to confer with Lawrence S. Camp, United States district attorney.

Mr. Rogge is assistant attorney-general of these United States and heads the division prosecuting criminal cases for the government.

He flew here from Shreveport, La., yesterday afternoon.

"I've been down there trying to get an early date set for the trial of former Governor Richard Leche," he said.

He handled the government's cases in the Louisiana scandal which revealed that many politicians there were accepting graft, and will direct the trials of those who haven't been convicted.

Among the notables who have already been sent to jail is Dr. James Monroe Smith, former president of Louisiana State University.

Rogge was with the Securities Exchange Commission before he went with the justice department about two years ago.

Jack Flint, assistant district attorney, and Louis B. Schwartz, special assistant to the attorney general, met Rogge at the airport yesterday afternoon. They escorted him to Camp's office for a conference "on several matters of importance."

The assistant attorney general plans to remain in Atlanta today and possibly tomorrow. He was Camp's guest at an informal supper last night.

O. JOHN ROGGE, Assistant attorney general of the United States.

PLANES WILL LINK SEATTLE - ALASKA

Nome To Be Brought Within 48 Hours of New York.

By ALICE ROGERS HAGER. For North American Newspaper Alliance.

NEW YORK, March 19.—The airplane has at last come into its own in Alaska and, with a thoroughly roused federal government in Washington giving the help that Alaskans have been asking for years, the days of rugged pioneering in the air in the last American frontier are drawing to an end.

So says Big Joe Crosson, most famous of the territory's spectacular pilots, who is here "outside," arranging for the beginning of plane service between Seattle and Juneau, the last link in the chain that will bind the outermost rim of that frontier—the storied little city of Nome—to the aerial chain within the states and bring it within 48 hours' flying time of New York.

Open May 15. It is hoped now by Pan American Airways, parent company of Pacific Alaska Airways, which will operate the new service, to have that link in place by May 15.

Two of the Pacific Alaska pilots have been at company training headquarters in Miami for more than a year, going through the rigid course given there, and preparations have been made to transfer a Sikorsky S-42 flying boat, with a capacity of 25 passengers, to Seattle when the great day comes. Up in the territory the CAA is rapidly putting in radio ranges of the latest ultra-high-frequency type, improving ground stations for better broadcasting of weather information, and beginning to work at the much-needed bettering of landing fields.

Crosson Famous. Crosson in New York is a very different figure from Crosson at home in Alaska. If you met him here, you would probably be struck by his ruggedness, but there are a lot of good athletes in New York business offices. Seen in his own background, he becomes a genial, confident personality, quiet, but with a great sense of fun, called by his first name by everybody from school boys to grizzled prospectors, respected for his intimate knowledge of wind and weather and all the land "back of beyond"—and for his courage that has made him the outstanding mercy flier of the territory. You'd hear hair-raising stories of his daring, but he'd never tell them to you.

He is the logical successor of Carl Ben Eielson, who started the flying game in 1924 up there, and who was Joe's best friend until he crashed in trying to help out a stranded ship.

10 ARE QUESTIONED IN PROBE OF DRIVE

Investigation involved contributions to Congressman Wheelchel's campaign funds by friends.

Camp Silent.

District Attorney Camp yesterday still refused to comment on the case.

It was reported that most of the witnesses to be called before the jury have already been questioned and that only a few are left to be called in today.

Judge William H. Barrett, of Augusta, presided over federal district court again yesterday in the absence of Judge E. Marvin Underwood, who has been indisposed. Judge Underwood expects to return to the bench today, it was said.

HITTING A REPORTER COST $50, JAIL TERM

NEW ORLEANS, March 19.—(P)—Eugene Gill, 38-year-old house of detention clerk, was sentenced today to two months in jail and fined $50 for slugging a newspaper reporter during the second Democratic primary February 20.

Gill was the second man sentenced by Criminal Judge Frank T. Echezabal in two days in connection with a series of assaults upon newspapermen and supporters of Governor-designate Sam Jones at polling booths.

SIX PERSONS HURT IN BLAZING STORE

were played on the structure, and when it seemed that the flames were about to be conquered they would break out afresh in another sector.

Sherman said he had been informed that the blaze was started when a blow torch exploded in the basement.

Johnson, J. O. Moseley, and Harvey Brown were making installations for the power company in the store basement when the explosion took place, according to information given Sherman.

At the time the fire started, Johnson had left the basement to go into an alley, but heard fire engines and saw smoke coming from the store. He re-entered to warn his colleagues of the danger, but was overcome. Later he found that Moseley and Brown had made their way to safety before he was forced to abandon his rescue effort.

Bill Hurst, Emanuel and Tomassi were working in the upholstery rooms on the second floor when they heard the alarm and noticed the smoke. They attempted to get out, but Emanuel and Tomassi elected to jump from the second-story window. Hurst found an exit to safety.

Starts in Annex. The fire started in the three-story annex which is a part of the McDonald building, occupied by the furniture company. The main part of the building is five stories high, but most of the fire proper was confined to the annex.

Tongues of flame leaped from the annex into the alley back of Whitehall street and towards the H. G. Hastings Seed Company. Thousands of fruit trees and shrubs which the Hastings company keeps in the open area way behind the Mitchell street store were endangered for a time. Hastings employees stood ready on the roof of their own buildings, armed with hand fire extinguishers.

Several hundred spectators got shower baths when several hoses burst under high pressure as the battle continued. Geysers of water would spring from the slit hose, and the crowds would scatter, only to return to points of vantage when the hose was mended.

Harry G. Moore, electric superintendent of the power company, last night said the company crew denied that the kerosene torch being used had exploded.

The men declared no fire was started in the basement, and that it originated in some other part of the building.

"They said they knew nothing at all of a fire in the building until they were almost trapped," Moore added.

MAN SENTENCED IN 'INJURY' CASE

Jack Everson Confesses to False Swearing.

Pleading guilty to false swearing, Jack Everson, alias "Emerson," was sentenced to three years on the public works by Judge Paul S. Etheridge yesterday in Fulton superior court.

Everson admitted making a false affidavit at Crawford W. Long hospital in February in support of a claim against the Citizens and Southern National Bank building where he claims he fell and injured himself while waiting for an elevator.

His affidavit set out that he had never filed a claim for personal injuries in any other cities. Records were produced to show that he had filed similar claims in Macon, Tampa and other cities.

A native of Rome, Ga., and the son of a Baptist minister, Culpeper built the bottling concern from a small, local franchise to one of the nation's leading businesses.

Announcement of the will, made at a stockholder meeting yesterday, revealed that he owned 101,380 shares of stock in his Coca-Cola bottling company, having a current market value of $8,000,000. After disposing of a $12,000 annual trust fund for Mrs. Culpeper, the remainder of the estate goes to the "Charles E. Culpeper Foundation" which, the will directed, should be incorporated under the general laws of New York state, or by special act of non-profit organization stock.

The income is to be "applied and distributed for charitable, religious and/or educational purposes." The will placed no limitations on disposition of the principal as applied to purposes set forth for the foundation, but Culpeper requested that its greater part be conserved for the benefit of the foundation may extend for future generations.

Gothic art got its name because medieval critics who disliked the style attributed its origin to the Goths.

FATHER CONVICTED IN INFANT'S DEATH

Given Six to 12 Years; Judge Bitterly Denounces Jury.

MEDIA, Pa., March 19.—(AP)—William J. Larkin, 26-year-old shipyard worker, was convicted of voluntary manslaughter today and sentenced to six to 12 years' imprisonment for strangling his 20-month-old son.

He also was fined $6,000 and prosecution costs. The sentence was the limit allowed under the law.

Police had quoted Larkin as saying he killed his son February 25 to "spite" his estranged wife and prevent her from taking the child away.

Judge Albert Dutton MacDade was so dissatisfied with the verdict that he turned to the jurors and said:

"I don't know what we're going to do with a verdict like this when the defendant confesses a first-degree murder. God save the commonwealth if all jurors are like you. I don't see how a jury can render a verdict like this when a child's life has been snuffed out by the father who should have protected it."

Then he told Larkin: "You are the most miserable creature that has ever appeared before me. You are not worthy of being called a human being. You killed the child because you had a quarrel with your wife—a crime without any justification—just a brutal act."

Bus Line Routed Along Little Street That Isn't There

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 19.—(AP)—It was a case of the little street that wasn't there.

An inquiring reporter revealed to the city commission today that a new bus line had been routed on a street that exists only on the city's map.

The commission met immediately to rectify the error.

PRIMARY IN CAMDEN

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., March 19.—Camden county's Democratic primary will be held April 17 and because of several contested offices the vote is expected to be the largest polled in the county in many years.

R. S. Joiner, tax receiver, is being opposed by Kelly Liles for tax collector.

For the office of tax receiver there are three candidates, Albert Clements, Cy Baker and C. F. Russell.

Sheriff Clark Smith is opposed by Alex Cheney and "Pop" Purdue.

Unopposed officeholders are W. M. Godley, county clerk; C. F. Jackson, ordinary, and Mrs. Mamie Lou Gross, county school superintendent.

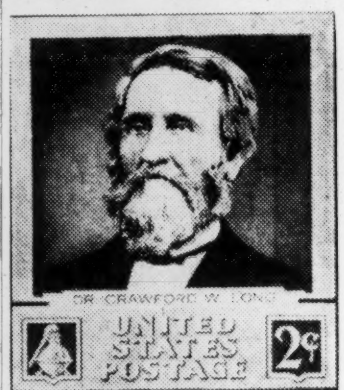

JANITOR DISAPPEARS AT RED CROSS OFFICE

Officials at Red Cross roll call headquarters, at 56 Broad street, are concerned about the disappearance of Will Henderson, their Negro janitor, who was last seen about 6 o'clock Saturday night.

Henderson, who, according to his wife, has never failed to come home before, told the janitor next door to the Red Cross office that he was going to Symrna to preach Sunday and walked with him to the Marietta car late Saturday.

When Mrs. J. G. Goodman came to the office Sunday morning, she found the door unlocked, and a pocket notebook belonging to Henderson on the floor.

Man's Benefactor

The memory of the late Dr. Crawford W. Long, whose discovery, ether, has probably done more to relieve suffering than any other thing to lessen the suffering of mankind, is to be honored with a 2-cent postage stamp, a copy of which is shown here. Dr. Long performed his first successful ether operation at Jefferson, Ga., March 30, 1842. The stamp will go on sale at Jefferson April 8.

SKELTON RECALLS DIGGING UP YANKEES

Last Cobb County Veteran Given Cake on His 92d Birthday.

James Skelton, who remembers working just after the War Between the States for $1.40 a day, digging up Yankees around Kennesaw and taking their bodies to Marietta for burial, celebrated his 92d birthday yesterday at the Confederate Soldiers' Home.

Mr. Skelton received many presents and greetings and the Kennesaw Chapter of the U. D. C. sent him a birthday present, a white pound cake with pink "Happy Birthday" lettering. He is the only living Cobb county Confederate, and is always remembered by the Cobb county organization.

For 13 months he fought with the Confederate army, and is the only living person who was on the train stolen by the Union soldiers at Big Shanty. He spent yesterday recalling his war experiences and receiving his family and friends.

But Mr. Skelton's favorite topic of conversation yesterday was the world premiere of "Gone With the Wind" which he attended last December. He not only saw that production the first time it was shown, but also saw his first movie. The great spectacle still amazes him.

He is the father of Ed and George Skelton, and Mrs. Sid Arrington, all of Smyrna; John and W. P. Skelton, of Kennesaw, and Elijah Skelton, of Marietta.

COUNCIL OF SAFETY

URGED BY SULLIVAN

DUBLIN, Ga., March 19.—(AP)—Safety Commissioner Lon Sullivan today proposed a statewide, non-political safety council of citizens to save "at least 500 human lives in Georgia" during the next three years.

In a talk prepared for the Exchange Club luncheon here, Sullivan cited a toll of 2,480 killed in street and highway accidents in the last three years, adding "unless we unite forces, we can expect the same thing to be repeated during the coming three years."

He urged Dublinites to "start the ball rolling for a crusade to save 500 lives before January, 1944."

RAIL EXECUTIVE DIES AT HOME IN SAVANNAH

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 19.—(AP)—Charles F. Groves, treasurer of the Central of Georgia Railway and treasurer of the Chatham county board of education, died here this morning at his home after a long illness.

DESERTION CHARGE IS CAUSED BY SONG

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., March 19.—(AP)—A song from a radio sent a husband off to police headquarters.

He recognized the singer as his wife, who left him last fall. So he swore out a warrant charging her with desertion.

FIREMAN IS INJURED IN STATESBORO BLAZE

STATESBORO, Ga., March 19.—(AP)—Fireman Hubert Davis was burned on the face fighting flames which, swept by a high wind, threatened yesterday to wipe out two town blocks. Other firemen suffered from smoke inhalation.

The residence of J. F. Upchurch, where the fire started, was destroyed, along with a wooden Sunday school annex of the Presbyterian church and a garage. One side of the church also burned.

BARN DESTROYED

TIFFIN, Ga., March 19.—A barn on the farm of W. A. Puckett, at Enigma, was burned Sunday. Loss included two mules, a wagon, tools, plows, corn and other articles.

FISHERMEN TOTAL 15,000,000 IN U. S.

Professionals Take Lamb's Share of Season's Catch, Official Says.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—(AP)—American fishermen were estimated today at 15,000,000 by Charles E. Jackson, acting commissioner of fisheries.

He told the North American Wild Life conference that commercial fishermen take the smaller part of the season's catch. In Puget sound, for example, recreational angles took 58.1 per cent of last year's catch of Chinook salmon.

Great Cotton Oil Market Seen If Barriers on Margarine Fall

Monopoly Committee Told Interstate Trade Being Hampered.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—(AP)—Representatives of the margarine and cottonseed industries contended before the monopoly committee today that multiple state restrictions and taxes on the sale of margarine constituted a major barrier to interstate trade and an economic burden on large consumer and producing groups.

John Moloney, representing cotton-producing groups and the National Cottonseed Products Association, and C. H. Janssen, president of the National Association of Margarine Manufacturers, asserted that taxation of margarine and other restrictions on its sale served no purpose except to handicap one food product for the benefit of another.

At the same time Moloney estimated that removal of all restrictions on the sale of margarine would open a potential market for 300,000,000 or 400,000,000 pounds of cotton oil annually.

Present per capita consumption of three pounds annually in this country, he told the committee, might be increased to eight or nine pounds. Denmark, which he described as probably the leading dairy country of the world in proportion to its population, had a per capita margarine consumption of 48 pounds annually, he testified.

"With cotton production limited by law," Moloney conceded, "it is not likely that the production of cottonseed oil can be greatly increased."

However, he said, at the present time cotton oil barred from the margarine market was being forced into other outlets such as shortening, salad oil and salad dressing, and would be available for margarine if the restrictions were lifted.

In more than 2,000 homes last year, such scenes as this might have been photographed as the Atlanta Chapter of the American Red Cross went about its work of mercy. Here a widowed mother and her little boy receive clothing from Miss Martha Dennison as they await the compensation due a widow of a World War soldier. With private contributions, with the dimes and dollars of Atlantans, the Red Cross carries on its work.

DOCTORS stress remaining in bed until the body temperature is normal. Sound advice.

You know how weak you feel after a cold. Colds play havoc in weakening the body. The story is well told in the blood picture. It is important to build back body strength right away to carry the load of work, worries, and loss of sleep. A weakened body may be more susceptible to relapse or long drawn out recovery.

RED CROSS HELPS WIDOWED MOTHER

Case Typical of Thousands Given Aid by Mercy Organization.

When there is a way to help, the Red Cross will help. "Typical of the thousands who call upon this great mercy organization each year is the widowed mother who sat weeping in the Atlanta office of the Red Cross the other day.

Her husband, a war veteran, had died in the hospital at Augusta. She had nothing. No money for his burial. No food for herself. No clothes for her little ones.

Miss Martha Dennison, Red Cross social worker, heard her story. Gently, she explained that the Red Cross, just as it had served her to place her sick husband in the hospital, would serve her now that he was gone.

The government, she assured the distracted wife, would bury her husband with the military honors and clothing for the children and the mother.

Through knowing how to help, the Red Cross had saved a mother and her brood from want.

ILLEGALITY SEEN IN PROBATION PAY

County Attorney Declares That the Law Is Not Being Followed.

A letter advising county commissioners that in all probability salaries of assistant probation officers whose offices have not been recommended by the grand jury are illegal has been received by E. L. Almand, chairman of the commission, from Hughes Spalding, head of the county's legal department.

The letter, received several days ago, was ordered filed without action, but Frank Fling, secretary to the board, said members of the commission had discussed it with the grand jury.

The county attorney's letter said: "The law is not being followed, either by the superior court judges or by the county commissioners, and county money is being disbursed in large amounts annually to pay salaries for the probation officer and his assistants."

"I think it is proper that your attention be called to the fact that these payments are in all probability illegal, and that should the point be raised and should suits be instituted, the county commissioners are personally responsible and liable for sums paid such assistant probation officers whose offices have not been recommended by the grand jury."

"My opinion is that this matter should be presented to the grand jury so that they can make an accurate, sensible survey of the probation office and its needs, and then make recommendations."

COLUMN UNTRUE, ROOSEVELT SAYS

Repudiates Article That Said He Wouldn't Run Again.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—(P) The third term riddle became more puzzling than ever tonight as President Roosevelt repudiated a much-discussed article in which he was quoted as stating his views on 1940 ticket-making.

The article, by Ernest K. Lindley, columnist, was published on March 4 and asserted that President Roosevelt, in a conversation with a southern legislator, had said:

That he was not going to run for a third term.

That Cordell Hull, secretary of state, would be a good man for the presidency.

That it would be inadvisable to nominate Postmaster General James A. Farley for the vice presidency because the nomination would stir up a lot of religious prejudice and emotion and would lead some people to say that "we are using Cordell Hull as a stalking horse for the Pope."

Speaking with rare bluntness at a press conference today, Mr. Roosevelt said he never had said church, and that the rest of the column was equally false.

ATLANTA, GA., MARCH 20, 1940.

False to Their Oath

James A. Colescott, imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, in a statement issued after a meeting of the governing body of the Klan, denounced recent floggings perpetrated in Fulton county by gangs of hoodlums and declared the Klan deplores such floggings as much as any citizen. He denies any official connection, by the Klan, with these outrages and promises, if any local branch of the organization is shown to have had anything to do with them, its charter will be revoked. He then asserts, if it is shown that any of the men ultimately found guilty of participation in the floggings are members of the Klan, they will be immediately dismissed from that membership.

All of which was to have been expected and is entirely satisfactory, as far as it goes.

There have been reports that the revelation of a series of flogging outrages, carried on in Fulton county for years and culminating in the death, as a result of such a flogging, of Ike Gaston, East Point barber, might result in complete disbanding of the Klan.

It is a question whether there is any logical reason for the existence of the Klan in modern society. It may, within its own organization and lodge rooms, serve some good purpose. It may, on the other hand, be nothing but a harmless example of "little boy" complex—that desire on the part of men, adult in years, to revert to the "make believe" activities of childhood. It may appease the yearning of insignificance, by making little men, under the anonymity of masks, feel they are, for the time being, creatures of awesome import and persons of dire importance. In other words, the mask permits those more used to plodding, to strut.

It is not, however, necessary to disband the Klan.

It is necessary, if public interest and public safety are to be served, for the Klan to discontinue its practice of appearing in public places with faces masked.

The Klan violates its own sworn oath when it permits any of its members to appear, outside the lodge room, wearing hoods, masks or any form of regalia which hides their individual identities.

For, according to Mr. Colescott himself, there is a clause in the Klan oath which reads: "I most solemnly promise and swear that I will always, at all times and in all places, help, aid and assist the duly constituted officers of the law in the proper performance of their legal duties."

When Klansmen appear in public with their faces covered they are, in actual fact, "helping, aiding and assisting" the forces of the underworld to break the law, instead of supporting the law, as they are sworn. For they are creating a condition which tempts to scorn of law and which provides disguise under which men, so inclined, may enact vicious deeds of darkness, in direct violation of every principle of law and order, whether those criminals be actual Klansmen or not.

Granting, even, that the gangs of floggers who have disgraced the name of Fulton county have no official connection with the Klan, who can doubt their crimes were encouraged by the example set by hooded Klansmen parading and issuing "warnings" to various individuals to "leave town" or "lead a better life?"

Of course, that section of the Klan oath quoted by Mr. Colescott really means nothing, in so far as special Klan significance is concerned. For it is a mere reiteration of the duty devolving upon every citizen. Everybody, regardless of Klan membership, is required under the common law to "help, aid and assist" in the proper enforcement of the law. If Klan membership, as asserted by Mr. Colescott, is confined to men of "sufficient moral standing," there is absolutely no need for such an oath. Such men are already observing its requirements.

No reasonable person will object to the existence of the Klan, for the enjoyment of all who think membership therein is worth the dues, if it confines its regalia and secret hocus-poes within its own lodge rooms, just as other fraternal organizations.

But, just as long as the Klan persists in the use of masks in public places, so long is it encouraging lawlessness and providing opportunity for the easier perpetration of crime.

It is thus false to its own oath and to those same obligations which are part of the general duties of every citizen.

Nice-Sounding Phrases

Whatever the problem, the Republicans today have a program for it. They are very careful in their use of the words "answer" or "solution." But they do have a program for everything. Nothing definite, you know, but on the right track—the G. O. P. track—and quite "the American way."

One of these startling programs was voiced recently by the erudite Representative Hamilton Fish, whom the Republicans netted from the crystal-clear waters of a New York silk-hat district. Mr. Fish sees things distinctly. He knows things. He may not have a "solution," per se, but he does have programs. He wheels them around on lecture tours. This particular one had four points and the speech was neatly wrapped around the thesis that "New Deal internationalists" are leading this country into a European or Asiatic war. That, of course, leaves the field wide open. Any old war will do.

The program is guaranteed to "promote peace and to re-employ American wage earners." Here is that brilliant, if rather vacuous presentation:

1. Keep America out of foreign wars. 2. Balance the budget "by practicing national economy and reducing rather than increasing expenditures and taxes." 3. "Restore American markets to products of American farms and factories." (Farms before factories? Tut, tut, Mr. Fish. That's not Republican.) 4. "Stop the growth of collectivism, class hatred and state socialism."

On that empty brand of innocuity the Republicans seek control of the government. To be sure, each and every item in the "program" is very much to be desired. But it is the people who will keep America out of foreign wars, not the Republicans. If the people want to fight, then Republican President or not, they'll fight. If they don't, they won't. Budget balancing was a Republican headache as well as a Democratic, and no administration is going to get it balanced within the next few years unless there are startling changes in the national economy and the international picture.

The restoration of American markets to American farms and factories is simply the espousal of high tariffs that benefit none but the big industrialists. The last item reminds one of the closing days of the Hoover administration.

Pretty words and empty phrases will not accomplish the things America wants done. But they must sound nice to the Republicans. They overwork them enough.

War and Hospitals

That war has a wrenching effect on all phases of ordinary life can be seen in a recent news story that the Anglo-French war with Germany has dislocated the entire machinery of Great Britain's medical profession and public health services.

This dislocation began with the outbreak of the war. Preparing for the lightning air attack which most persons expected within a few hours of the declaration of war, the big London hospitals removed all patients well enough to be moved, leaving the beds ready for the anticipated air raid casualties. In many instances, hospitals in what were believed to be the most obvious target areas moved staffs as well as patients to country districts.

The war has had further effect also in the fact that many of the younger surgeons and physicians are at the front. So far, the big hospitals have had little to do beyond illness and road accident cases. Another phase of the situation is that many hospitals in England may be forced to shut down entirely, due to lack of income. In this connection, it must be noted the majority of institutions exist on volunteer public support.

In short, all these factors may soon force a showdown on the much-debated question: Should the state take control of all medical services in the country? If this eventually comes about, it is just another step in the world's increasing trend toward regimentation. Thus once again war is seen as the cause of added evil.

Along in the fourth hour of "Parsifal," we have been in favor of changing the Wagner Act.

The world's largest jewel, a topaz in the Smithsonian Institution, weighs 152 pounds. It is estimated that an actress would need two cabs in which to mislay this.

And so the grabbing-off of a slice of Finland by big Russia goes down in the book as another of the have-nots coming into his own.

The circumstance that there is no throne of Austria doesn't lighten matters for a pretender. On the contrary, he must pretend harder.

For one another's amusement, Dora and a girl chum dropped into a place yesterday and tried on hats.

In spring the young man's fancy lightly turns to what the boys on the West Front ought to have plenty of leisure these days to write her about.

Editorial of the Day

AN OPPORTUNE TIME

(From the Springfield, Ohio, Sun.)
In making pleas for peace Saturday afternoon the prominent persons participating in the program had the advantages of an opportune time. The European belligerents are faced with the choice of making peace or making more strenuous efforts to win the war. The conflict has been going on long enough to show that it cannot be won quickly or easily by either side and to demonstrate pretty plainly what a tremendous economic burden it will impose.

But, unless belligerents on both sides are willing to make very substantial concessions, it is improbable that these pleas will be a success. That is no reason why they should not be offered.

The frequent repetition of such pleas may in time have a cumulative effect of importance. They at least excite thought in the minds of responsible leaders and in the minds of their irresponsible followers in the belligerent countries, and out of that thinking a better and more rational mood may develop in time.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

BEGINNING OF CONTROVERSY

WASHINGTON, March 19. Secretary of War Harry A. Woodring's jealous irritation at being excluded from supervision of Allied war buying is the real breeding ground for the current truckus over British and French airplane purchases. In the atmosphere of the Woodring War Department, this kind of thing is inevitable. Yet the immediate circumstances of the controversy are also interesting.

Its point of origin seems to have been the testimony of Major General H. H. Arnold, chief of the air corps, before the house military affairs committee. In the past year the army overspent its $300,000,000 airplane appropriation by about $30,000,000. The committee asked General Arnold to explain. The true reason was that, after getting the appropriation, the War Department's guiding minds decided they must have faster, more powerful and therefore more expensive planes. But instead of making a clean breast of it, General Arnold answered so vaguely that isolationist committee members were later able to attribute the overspending to a rise in airplane prices caused by English and French buying.

General Arnold was not entirely at fault. Yet the questioning of the isolationist committee members made their intention quite plain.

It would have been easy for General Arnold to forestall them with a categorical statement of the truth, that the only rise in plane prices has been caused by increased labor costs on the west coast. The fact that he made it possible for the opposite inference to be drawn is only another sign of the state of affairs in the Woodring War Department, where the attitude of the chief encourages petty imitation among the subordinates.

"INTELLIGENCE MILITARY" In "Point Counter Point" Aldous Huxley gleefully points out that the Encyclopedia Britannica classifies intelligence under the three successive divisions, "intelligence human, intelligence animal, intelligence military." The gradation is suggestive, for although it is the President's announced policy to aid the democracies in their death struggle by "methods short of war," the intelligence of many of the local military has been greatly troubled by the mere thought that our industrial resources were available to any other nation. The result has been a sort of passive resistance, in many army quarters, to the army's own commander-in-chief.

The passive resistance which would vanish if Woodring showed firmness is perfectly unjustified by the facts of the case. In the first place, the American airplane industry was pitifully inadequate to the needs of our national defense when the war began. The English and French buying has produced a much needed expansion, and has moreover, paid for it.

In the second place, disclosure to the English and French of real military secrets such as the army bomb-sight has never been proposed. Because of Woodring's attitude of nonco-operation, the President chose Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. to supervise Allied war buying. But the English and French air missions do not deal directly with Morgenthau. In the last week, for example, they have been talking planes for the new $1,000,000,000 contract with Captain H. E. Collins, of the Treasury's procurement division. Quartermaster General E. B. Gregory, of the army, and Rear Admiral Ray Spear, paymaster general of the navy. This committee, including qualified representatives of both service departments, will eventually submit its recommendations to Morgenthau. He will pass them on to the President, and the President, as commander-in-chief, will in turn pass them on to the army and navy, where they will have to be approved by the aeronautical board before becoming effective.

JACKKNIVES AND PITCHFORKS This procedure alone would seem to offer sufficient safeguards of the national interests. There is, however, the further fact that the most important point of national interest in the foreign field is defeat of the dictatorships in their ambition of world dominance. As Morgenthau once remarked to Woodring: "I have no great love for the English and French. But in the revolution the English had to hire Hessians to fight us, while now we pay for their weapons, too."

It is a definite rule, carefully followed despite all the Woodringite hints to the contrary, that no plane designs are released to the English and French until superior designs have already been prepared for the army and navy. To go further, to insist that the English and French could only buy obsolete planes, would be narrow, short-sighted folly. Experimental development of American aircraft would be prevented. And the Allies, who must buy planes for delivery by air or some other way, would be forced to fight "with jackknives against an enemy armed with pitchforks."

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

Thanks For A Hard Winter.

We folks who live in the cities have done too much grousing about the weather during the now fading winter of 1939-40. We revelled in the snow for a day or two, to be sure, but we thought and said, that such cold and snow was a fearful affliction to be visited upon the sunny south.

We shivered in morning cold and bewailed the added cost of coal required to heat our homes and we have wondered, in critical hours, how much longer the rain is going to continue.

We should be ashamed of ourselves. For, actually, the severity of the winter, if that is the proper description, was a blessing sent by an exceptionally kindly providence. Old Man Winter decided, for once in his career, to show us a little of his power. Monday, some of his riches on the south as well as on the north.

Rightfully, we should be rejoicing and already hoping that the winter of 1940-41 will be more severe, insofar as cold and snow go, than has been 1939-40.

What It Means.

Folks who know their vegetables, and their cotton and tobacco and field crops, are giving thanks for the snow and cold. They know what it means to welcome a hard winter. They know it means real money to the farmers and, it is axiomatic, when farmers prosper so do we all.

A cold winter checks blue mold on tobacco, and similar plant diseases. Cold kills aphids and beetles and boll weevils and red spiders and other insect pests of the fields.

An good freeze pulverizes the soil and thus enables more uniform, and quicker, plant growth.

The heavy snows impregnate our soils with thousands of dollars worth of lime to every county. And so on.

Let's quit fussing about a little, temporary, creature discomfort and voice a devout prayer of thanks for the snow and cold that was our lot this winter.

Maintaining His Record.

It was a very real privilege to be invited, last Monday, to attend the Rotary meeting in Cartersville and to make a speech before such a receptive audience. You know, if you've ever gone around making speeches, there is a vast difference in audiences. No one could find a better gang to talk before than the Rotarians of Cartersville.

Just as the meeting was getting under way, that grand friend and excellent newspaper man, Milton Fleetwood, whispered to me: "One member of the club hadn't missed a meeting in 14 years. This faithful member was stricken ill, some two weeks ago. He had attended two meetings since stricken, though all thought he should have remained in bed."

Last Monday he wasn't there when the meeting began and there was some talk of special arrangements, just for him.

But then, slowly and carefully, he walked in. And you should have heard the applause! You never saw me more solicitous about another's welfare. They closed windows to avoid drafts and so forth and so on.

And the 14-year record is still unbroken.

Me and My Ham.

They had a most luscious slice of ham on each plate at the luncheon. Which meant fierce temptation for me. For I like ham, a lot. But it doesn't like me. For some reason, I have the sternly resisted temptation and denied myself the pleasures of pork eating. Monday, I fell to the point of about two little bites. And, sure 'nuf, had a headache Tuesday.

This ham-allegory of mine can produce funny situations. F'rinstance.

Some weeks ago I was guest of a delightful gathering of a Jewish fraternity. They served ham.

And I, the lone Gentile present, was the only one who didn't eat it.

For me, they found some fried tongue, but all the others seemed to enjoy the ham a lot.

It looked grand, anyway.

Twenty-Five Years Ago.

From the news columns of Saturday, March 20, 1915:

"London, March 19.—The British battleships Irresistible and Ocean and the French battleship Bouvet were blown up by floating mines while engaged with the remainder of the Allied fleet in attacking the forts in the narrows of the Dardanelles Thursday."

And Fifty Years Ago.

From the news columns of Thursday, March 20, 1890:

"Mrs. G. W. McGinnis, of Alpharetta, has a breed of chickens that she says will eat only six months in the year; they fast the other six, and are as fat at the end of their fast as they were before."

Bad Luck.

People who think they have bad luck might compare their jinx lack with the rueful record of Jack Twomey, of Basin, Wyo. In the span of two weeks:

His son broke a shoulder playing football.
His daughter broke an arm when she fell from a horse.
He started on a trip in his new car but wrecked it in Nebraska.
Returning home, he found his kitchen had caught fire and was badly damaged.
His best cow died.
His turkey, fattening for the holidays, died from overeating.
The driver of the other car involved in the Nebraska accident filed suit against him.

Jackson's Loyalty

WASHINGTON, D.C., March 19.—Attorney General Jackson is standing loyally by his associate, Chief G-Man Hoover. He issued an order the effect of which is to prevent wire-tapping in criminal cases by any federal bureau. In doing so he made it clear that Mr. Hoover opposed and forbade wire-tapping in FBI, until ordered by a former attorney general to use that method under close personal supervision in extreme cases.

Yet, in view of the tow-row kicked up by Senator Norris' indictment of FBI, and the proposed senate resolution for an investigation of wire-tapping, this order may look like a retirement under fire from an evil practice in FBI, in the very obvious "smear Hoover" campaign that is going on.

Neither in Senator Norris' letter nor in the senate resolution was there any intimation whatever of any complaint by anybody of any FBI invasion of civil rights by tapping wires. On the contrary, Senator Green has denied that the senate resolution intimates any such thing, and added: "As a matter of fact this investigation into wire-tapping practice was partly the result of evidence uncovered by FBI in its state."

Protests Wire-Tapping prevented wire-tapping. It is well known throughout FBI that it is worth any agent's job to tap a wire in any case not specifically authorized by the chief himself, and that has never been done except where a human life was at stake or at the climax of the cleanup of some Dillinger-like bandit or racketeering gang.

That doesn't mean that plenty of wires have not been tapped by other departments of federal government, by state and local police and in state political rows such as the one hinted by Senator Green in Rhode Island. Another case occurred in California in the bitter battle between the governor and the speaker of the California house. These and other instances, and not any action of FBI, are responsible for the proposed senate action.

Yet, one of the catch phrases in the push to get Hoover is: "He has so much on so many prominent politicians that they had better get him before he gets them." This is good enough to make a good many big game hunters and not suffer at the thought of J. Edgar walking the plank. It is like the old saying that you can worry all men and drive some to flight by a simple telegram saying: "Better lie low. All is discovered."

Records on Criminals FBI doesn't keep records on anybody but criminals, doesn't investigate anybody except on general or special orders and has never used trapping or wire-tapping methods on either Congressmen or other public officials.

During the World War one very high public official secreted a microphone in another's office and got into Woodrow Wilson's dog-house almost to the point of dismissal. During prohibition, when all civil rights were violated by federal enforcement of officers, wire-tapping was widely practiced and upheld by the courts. Mr. Ickes is said to have had his department elaborately cross-wired when he was handling billions in PWA. It used to be a rule in Wall Street during the negotiation of big deals never to telephone anything about them except from a public booth or your own office. Astute criminals in many states and all big cities never telephone from any place that could be tapped. The great inventor, Tom Dewey, might not like to get a going-over from any senate committee on wire-tapping. Maybe that also has something to do with current developments on this subject.

In such a state of affairs, Mr. Hoover's record of continuous opposition to such practices is remarkable. I think he is so far in the clear on all insinuations that any fair investigation will greatly strengthen him. But, in such a position, it is fairness is apt to take a holiday.

Stickup Soffie

A 21-year-old prisoner told Oklahoma City police the only thing that saved him from being a successful stickup man was his soft heart.

"The first man told me it was a dirty trick to hold him up," said the young man. "He was sacking up his money for me. We talked for 15 minutes and I finally shook hands with him and left without the money."

"The second fellow told a better sob story than I could tell him."

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

CAUSE CELEBRE?

States' rights, which once got this country into a war, are again to the fore. Governor E. D. Rivers, who is involved in a controversy with a federal judge, has attracted the attention of certain "states' rights" members of the United States senate by insisting Georgia is a sovereign state and bound, in so far as its own affairs are concerned, by the laws and the constitution of the state.

The agitation about repealing the poll tax is another cause which has stirred up the proponents of states' rights.

We went to war once upon a time about states' rights. The issue was the rights of states to make their own laws about slavery.

There still may be set up a rather effective argument the original union of the states left each state a sovereign state with the right to withdraw from the Union in the same manner as it had joined.

That patient man in the White House, Abraham Lincoln, was a Union man. He didn't care for the radicals and the extremists of either side. But he did believe in the Union. He never once wavered from that purpose.

The matters of the Union of states was settled. Certain rights were left to the states. The seductions of federal money seriously complicated those rights, but they still are a rallying call.

The poll tax controversy isn't much of a controversy. It won't stand up because it is meaningless in so far as the law is concerned.

The Rivers case very well may become one of national importance. It may become a real "cause celebre" and make some modern history. With a liberalized supreme court of the United States, a very surprising opinion conceivably might come out of that court should this state case reach its deliberations.

THE POLL TAX The Governor Rivers case may become a national issue and, if it reaches the supreme court, may bring more federal rulings on states' rights than we have had since the turbulent days during and after "the war."

The poll tax drive will not stand up.

At least most of the constitutional lawyers say so. The sixteenth amendment and the Constitution of the United States state that the qualifications for voting for the senators and representatives shall be the same as the qualifications for voting for the most numerous branch of the various state legislatures.

Those seeking the congressional action admit congress has no right to abolish poll taxes as a condition of voting for state legislators. If this is true, congress has no right to abolish poll taxes as a condition of voting for federal offices, since the constitution says that the qualifications in the two cases shall be identical.

The campaign to abolish poll taxes must take another direction. The states seem to have the entire right to give suffrage in state elections and the constitution qualifies the voting for federal offices. There are many sincere persons of liberal trends who do not believe all states ready for the abolition of the poll tax. There is no chance of Georgia, for some time at least, giving up this regulation with its minor charge for the right to vote.

WHAT RIGHTS? States' rights are, in many respects, rather ephemeral. There was such a scramble for federal money the states plainly showed their devotion to the entire principle of states' rights was not too well founded. It could be moved.

Too often states' rights have meant the right to have more hookworm, more malaria, lower standards of living, and a degenerating rural condition.

States' rights are not a holy principle, by any means. The states will continue to have certain rights. But, as there is more and more demand for federal aid, we shall see more and more loss of states' rights.

The same senators and congressmen who demanded more and more federal money for schools, public buildings and improvements could, in the next breath, oppose a federal anti-lynching bill or a poll tax bill. They may have been right in such opposition but they were not consistent.

It is almost inevitable that within the next few years there will be supreme court opinions on questions of states' rights. Cotton Ed Smith, who denounced Georgia's governor personally but who upheld him on a basis of state rights, expressed the fear of taking the case to the supreme court.

So, Georgia's new war of states' rights may be a national case and provide the issue for a review by the supreme court of the nation of the entire principle of states' rights.

It Isn't Charity To Take a Worker's Money and Give It To a Loafer

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

Years ago, before the continent was spanned by rail, a New England college man signed up as a common seaman and sailed around the Horn to California. When he got back he wrote a book, "Two Years Before the Mast," which is one of the Harvard classics and one of the best books in our language.

Landlubbers and stay-at-homes had no idea how sailors lived or what they endured. The subject didn't interest them, and they made no effort to investigate it. But when a gifted and articulate aristocrat told them the simple and shameful truth, they were shocked and indignant. Congress passed new laws to make the life of seamen more endurable.

Today, as always, one-half of the world doesn't know how the other half lives. Between the typical Harvard graduate and the illiterate share-cropper there is a gulf as wide as the world, and the share-cropper's ideas and capacities are as strange and foreign to the Harvard man as the mental processes of a Hottentot.

The young Harvard men in Washington may not be responsible for all of our present plans to help the underprivileged, but obviously the ideas are furnished by somebody who never got below the social level of a clean shirt every day.

IMPORTANT TO OBEY

LATE PRIMARY VERDICT

Editor Constitution: The old question of whether our county primary should be held early or late has again arisen. I had thought the matter definitely settled by the referendum about two years ago, when the voters expressed in no uncertain fashion their wishes that the spring primary be abandoned and a later primary held. Yet I am informed that, notwithstanding the referendum, there is a movement this year for an early primary, the reason given being that it is necessary to pass a proposed bond issue for the schools.

It is, of course, important that our schools be properly maintained, but in my opinion, there is no justification for using the bond issue as an excuse to disregard the wishes of the people. If the school officials now feel that the bond issue should be submitted at the present time rather than at a later primary, then there is no reason why they can not do so. It is hard to believe, however, that the question is one of such vital importance that it can not be postponed for approximately three months to a later primary, so that a large vote can be obtained. Our school problems should be handled separately from our election of county officials.

I think it of vital importance to the people of this community that their wishes be respected, and that a later primary be held this year.

CONVENTION ARREST SCENE

STYLED ACME OF FOLLY

Editor Constitution: I shall not express an opinion on the Rivers-Miller controversy and the subsequent court action in both state and federal courts to date—not having sufficient knowledge of legal matters.

The scene in "the Rivers-Miller drama" that concerns me most is the "extra added attraction" on the stage of the Macon Municipal auditorium last Friday night during the G. E. A. convention exercises. For real genius and showmanship, not to mention timing, that little act would do credit to the prize fool of all times.

I have heard the way to fight fire was with fire, although I do not recall having ever heard that the way to fight folly was with bigger and better dumb folly—for which the Macon episode should be entitled to an "Oscar." I'm sure every member of the G. E. A. present properly appreciated the "added attraction," will remember the "Dumfries of 1940" as presented by Judge Deaver at the Macon Municipal auditorium assisted by his brilliant cast for the benefit of the G. E. A. convention and in the interest of, shall we say, the gentleman who cut off his nose to spite his face.

OLD BULLOCK HOME

ARCHITECTURAL HERITAGE

Editor Constitution: With reference to your recent article regarding the old Bullock home at Roswell, may I urge my opinion that it would be an extremely valuable asset to the state if this could be preserved as public property.

It is a particularly fine example of our architectural heritage. These fine old houses are going fast, and as this one is notable as having many historical associations as well as being a fine example of the period, it seems to me highly desirable that it should not be lost to the public.

BULLOCK HOME MOVE

Editor Constitution: I want to express to you my sincere approval of the proposed idea of making Bullock Hall into a national park. It seems to me that this beautiful old home will make a historic shrine that will be of interest to all parties, as it was the home of Theodore Roosevelt's mother, and of Eleanor Roosevelt's grandmother. I hope that this idea will be successful.

LAW SCHOOL RULES ADOPTED BY BOARD

Future Institutions Must Meet Education Unit's Standards.

A set of standards which must be met by future law schools of Georgia was adopted yesterday by the State Board of Education.

The regulations governing law schools are the first to be established in the state and are in line with a law requiring that the state board establish standards for professional schools.

The standards provide:

1. That the school shall require for admission of candidates for degrees the completion of at least a high school course or the equivalent thereof.

2. That the school shall require of candidates for degrees a two-year course.

3. That the school shall keep accurate and permanent records on admission, course of study and other important information concerning students.

4. That the school shall have one full-time person who shall give substantially all of his time to the law school.

5. That it shall be governed by a self-perpetuating board of trustees.

The rules are not retroactive.

Numerous textbook salesmen were camped in the corridors of the state office building yesterday, since the board was expected to pass on new books for the state system. The board will be in session again today.

CONVENTION FUND URGED TO JURORS

Fulton Group Asked To Approve $500 for Commissioner Session.

The Fulton county grand jury yesterday was requested to approve a $500 appropriation to defray expenses of the April convention of the County Commissioners' Association of Georgia. The request was presented by E. L. Almand, chairman of the county board.

The last time the convention was held here the commissioners appropriated $1,000 with the grand jury's approval.

If the jury does not approve the request, it will be raised by subscription, Almand said.

The practice of getting grand jury approval was begun in 1933 after three commissioners who approved a similar appropriation were indicted by the grand jury on charges of misappropriating county funds. The charges were later dismissed.

TENNESSEE TO GET NEW PAPER MILL

$4,200,000 Plant Will Be Started When SEC Nods.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., March 19. (P)—Construction of a $4,200,000 plant of the Tennessee Valley Paper Mills, Inc., at Savannah, Tenn., will be started as soon as approval has been obtained from the Securities and Exchange Commission for issuance of stock, it was said by S. W. Dugan, of Knoxville, treasurer. He said the stock already had been subscribed.

The company has as president former Governor Gordon Browning, of Tennessee, while Major George L. Berry, of Pressmen's Home, Tenn., head of the International Printing Pressmen's and Assistants' Union, and former United States senator, is chairman of the board.

Dugan gave details of operations of the firm, which will make newsprint from Tennessee slash pine.

The firm will purchase outright more than 100,000 acres of timber in west Tennessee, principally in Hardin county, Dugan said. Trees will be replaced as they are used.

Not only will southern publishing plants be nearer the new source of supply, but by use of the Tennessee river and connecting streams, the freight costs will be still further reduced, Dugan said.

The new plant will use the Herty process for converting slash pine into newsprint.

BIG DRYDOCK STARTS 6,500-MILE VOYAGE

NEW ORLEANS, March 19. (P)—Belching tugs, straining to their task, edged a floating drydock, big enough to lift a 16,000-ton cruiser out of the water, out into the br-d Mississippi river here today and started it on a 6,500-mile ride to Pearl Harbor, Honolulu.

The great unwieldy device, so huge it must be dismantled before it can clear Panama canal locks, had seen service for 39 years at the former Algiers naval yard, but was ordered to Hawaii last fall by President Roosevelt as a step toward strengthening American naval defenses in the Pacific.

Old Aristocracy Viewed Pact As Proof Nazis Lack Principle

By WILLIAM L. WHITE, Special Correspondent.

(This is the second of several articles by W. L. White on reaction inside Germany toward the German-Soviet alliance. They were written in neutral Copenhagen from extensive notes taken by White during his stay in Germany, and brought across the border for preparation and mailing in order to avoid Nazi censorship.)

COPENHAGEN, Denmark—(By Mail)—After the first shock of surprise had passed, reaction among various groups in Germany, toward the treaty with Soviet Russia, varied widely. The old aristocracy was, of course, bitterly opposed to the treaty. But then, with the exception of a few black sheep such as Prince August Wilhelm, the old regime has always been against the Nazis, although they only mutter impotently in their clubs and among themselves on their large estates, and so no votes were changed by this. But the former ruling caste of Germany—it was the court circle under the Hohenzollerns—regarded it as just one more proof, if another were needed, of the lack of principle of these new people.

The army, however, welcomed the pact.

From the purely strategic standpoint it removed the danger which hung over Germany when Hitler forced the country into the Austrian and Czech coups—the chance that she might be squeezed between east and west.

At any rate the idea of joining ing Russia to devour a troublesome buffer state did not shock the military mind in Germany, and they rejoiced that England did not have the alliance.

German industry falls into two camps in its attitude toward the Russian alliance. The big industrialists at the top—who financed Hitler's rise because they feared Bolshevism and wanted to smash labor unions—are just as scared as you might guess, and Thyssen speaks eloquently for them. However, this is not all, or even a major part.

Industry in Germany has been thoroughly Nazified, and the average clean-clipped young industrialist will tell you—as several of them told me—that German industry welcomes the pact.

In the first place, remember the tradition of the 20s—Leninist Russia and Democratic Germany—when there was mutually profitable trade between the two. The young German industrialists are again looking toward the Russian market, and the future to them is even more rosy.

The Better Way to Correct Constipation

One way to treat constipation is to endure it first and "cure" it afterward. The other way is to avoid having it by getting at its cause. So why not save yourself those dull headache days, plus the inevitable trips to the medicine chest, if you can do it by a simple common-sense "ounce of prevention"?

If your trouble, like that of millions, is due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, "the better way" is to eat Kellogg's All-Bran. This crunchy, toasted, ready-to-eat cereal has just the "bulk" you need. If you eat it regularly—and drink plenty of water—you can not only get regular but keep regular, day after day and month after month! All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

Baby, 3, Is Killed As Grandmother's Tombstone Falls

MERIDIAN, Miss., March 19.—(AP)—Three-year-old Will Walker was crushed to death today by his grandmother's tombstone.

The child went to the cemetery with his family to attend the funeral of an uncle, Columbus Morgan.

The family remained to place flowers on the grandmother's tomb and the youngster was fatally injured when a stone toppled upon him.

Two Missiles, Believed Explosive, Fall in Bay; Windows Smashed.

ESBJERG, Denmark, Wednesday, March 20.—(UP)—It was reported here early today that two planes of undetermined nationality had dropped a few incendiary bombs on Holmsland Klit, a peninsula on the west coast of Denmark, early this morning.

Five minutes later, according to reports, two bombs, believed to have been explosive, were dropped in Soenderlyndvig bay, near Hvide Sande, north of here, where several windows were reportedly smashed.

There was an unconfirmed report that one plane of unknown nationality had been grounded at Fano. Fano is a Danish island off the west coast of Denmark. There also were unconfirmed reports that several bombs were dropped on the island.

It was reported that a telephone inquiry to Fano revealed the coast guard had reported to police that they had seen a plane fall in flames, apparently on the west coast of Fano. They said a search of the beach had failed to reveal a plane and believed that it fell into the sea.

Many planes were seen and heard flying in the vicinity of Esbjerg throughout the night.

BRITISH BLOCKADE IS TERMED 'SIEVE'

Laborite Tells Commons U. S. Cotton Exports Reach Nazis Regularly.

LONDON, March 19.—(AP)—Laborite Hugh Dalton declared in the house of commons tonight that the British blockade against Germany was "leaking like a sieve" and mentioned specifically United States cotton exports, which he said were reaching Germany through neutral countries.

"The value of cotton exported by the United States to Germany via European neutral countries since the beginning of the war compared with figures corresponding to the pre-war period shows increases which are sensational," Dalton said.

Prime Minister Chamberlain replied that a perfect blockade could not have been expected from the start of the war.

"We must have some respect" for the rules of international law, Chamberlain added.

Where British Hawks Swooped on Nazi Nest

British warbirds returned yesterday to the air base at Hornum on the island of Sylt on a far deadlier mission than when they made the above photograph during an earlier reconnaissance flight. The Nazi base was bombed for hours by wave of warplanes. Points shown are (A) aircraft being towed to large crane (A1); (B) slipway for launching aircraft; (C) curious camouflage effect; (D) a flying boat; (E) large hangar; (F) unused light railway, and (G) a shelter trench.

This map depicts the arena of the mammoth British air attack on the German island seaplane base of Sylt, and the artists' conception of the route the English warbirds took to their objective. Waves of bombers dumped their deadly loads in what was thought the largest aerial attack of history on one fortified point. Hornum, on the southern tip of Sylt, was reported "severely damaged."

Reds Sternly Warn Nordics Against Defensive Alliance

Proposed Pact by Finland, Sweden, Norway Held Peril to Russia.

MOSCOW, Wednesday, March 20.—(UP)—Russia today put thumbs down on the proposed defensive alliance among Finland, Sweden and Norway.

"Such an alliance," the official Tass news agency said, "would be aimed against the U. S. S. R. and would directly contradict the peace treaty concluded between the U. S. S. R. and Finland of March 12," ending the Russo-Finnish war.

The statement indicated that Moscow's consent had not been obtained prior to announcement that the alliance was under negotiation and intimated that the Russian government's knowledge of the proposed agreement came from reports in the "foreign press."

Cites Peace Treaty.

Article III of the Russo-Finnish treaty, it was recalled, reads: "Both contracting parties undertake mutually to refrain from any attack upon each other, not to conclude any alliance, not to participate in any conditions against one of the contracting parties."

The statement called attention to an alleged "anti-Soviet speech" made by the president of the Norwegian parliament on March 14—after the Russo-Finnish peace agreement was reached—and intimated that this was one of the reasons why Moscow cannot permit Finland to enter into agreements with other powers which might bear on the Finnish republic's relations with Russia.

To Crush Opposition.

(Students of the international situation suggested that belated Russian opposition to the proposed alliance might be in line with Russo-German efforts to permit nothing which would lead small powers to feel they might take steps in limiting or preventing domination of Europe by the Berlin-Moscow axis.)

Tass is authorized to state that these reports on the attitude of the Soviet Union do not correspond to the facts since, as can be seen from the well-known anti-Soviet speech made by (C. J.) Hambro, president of the Norwegian parliament, (parliament) on March 14, such an alliance would be aimed against the U. S. S. R. and would directly contradict the peace treaty concluded between the U. S. S. R. and Finland on March 12.

RUSSIA APPROVES TREATY WITH FINNS

MOSCOW, March 19.—(AP)—The presidium of the supreme Soviet tonight ratified the Russo-Finnish peace treaty, a Tass, official news agency, announcement stated.

Just before the ratification the Finnish delegates, Juho Paasikivi and Vaino Voionmaa, arrived in Moscow to exchange ratification instruments. The Finnish parliament already has approved the peace.

NEUTRALS' LIBERTY DECLARED AT STAKE

No Threat to Democracies If Allies Win, Cromwell Says.

(Picture on Page 14.)

TORONTO, March 19.—(AP)—James H. R. Cromwell, United States minister to Canada, expressed belief today that "the life, the liberty and the very safety" of neutrals was at stake in the European war and posed the question of what outlook faced the world if Germany won.

Cromwell said that if the Allies won the war he could see "no threat to the well-being, to the peace, or to the social and economic order of the neutral democracies, be they large or small."

Cromwell asked what kind of rule was being applied in countries which had been placed under the German "lebensraum" (living space) plan of extension. "Did the Austrians, Czechoslovaks or the Poles have a voice in the determination of their present form of government?" he asked.

streaked across the heavens in all directions, in a dazzling array of varied colors.

Wall of Fire.

"A wall of fire sprang up along the whole of the long island. Shortly after this a plane came flying low over our heads on Rome Island. It turned westward and flew rather uncertainly as if it might have been hit."

The air ministry communiqué said: "Tonight the Royal Air Force attacked, and severely damaged the German air base at Hornum on the island of Sylt. This is one of the shore bases from which German aircraft operate against our naval forces and merchant shipping. This action follows the attack upon our shore bases in the Orkneys."

DNB, the German official news agency, reported in Berlin that the British attempted three raids on Sylt and that one of the raiding planes was shot down after causing no damage other than setting fire to a house.

Reports from Copenhagen said the British bombers first appeared over the German island about 8 o'clock (1 o'clock Atlanta time), and that the raid "appeared to be on a big scale."

Chamberlain earlier in the day described Saturday's raid on the Orkneys, including the great British Scaapa Flow naval base, as a "failure." He said the Germans dropped 121 high explosive bombs and 500 incendiary bombs over an area of 10 square miles. One civilian was killed and seven wounded; there were seven naval casualties.

Of the Scaapa Flow raid, Chamberlain said also: "The excuse given by the German high command is that they were bombing military objectives, but, whatever their intention may have been, the house will note the facts."

Many times in the past the British government has stated it would not start bombing non-military objectives, but would reply with raid for raid.

ished British and neutral shipping. The raids on Sylt were frankly in reprisal for the Nazi attack on Scaapa Flow, which resulted in the killing of one civilian and the wounding of others.

They were being carried out even as the Labor peer, Lord Strathclyde, argued in the house of lords that the Scaapa Flow bombing "removed the obstacles to our bombing of German supply and naval bases." Lord Halifax, the foreign secretary, said he could not disagree as to the "very legitimate consequences" of the Scaapa Flow attack.

Morning newspapers, under huge headlines, proudly displayed the story as "R. A. F.'s Biggest Bomb Raid," or "Swift Vengeance for Scaapa Raid."

The first eye-witness account came from a Danish restaurant keeper, who told the Copenhagen newspaper Politiken:

"I saw two foreign planes come diving down through the clouds with crazy speed in the direction of Sylt. They dropped eight bombs. I saw great pillars of fire.

"Later I heard an explosion from a single bomb and a few seconds afterwards an explosion came which changed the sky over Sylt into a sea of fire. There was one explosion after another.

"A bomb undoubtedly hit an ammunition depot.

"All the anti-aircraft of Sylt then opened up; tracer bullets

Chamberlain Defies Threats; Roosevelt Pricks Peace Bubble

By The Associated Press.

Prime Minister Chamberlain gave Germany an emphatic and bellicose answer last night to oft-repeated threats of total warfare. Chamberlain stopped peace talk and opposition counter-attacks in the house of commons with the firm declaration that "we intend to fight."

The important Chamberlain speech drew capacity attendance by the commons members, who expected to hear his comment on the Hitler-Mussolini conference Monday at Brennero, near the Italian-German frontier. They were not disappointed, for Chamberlain in effect told Hitler and Mussolini: "Whatever you have decided, we are ready to meet it."

Chamberlain's ally, Premier Dauldier, who won his second vote of confidence within a week when the French chamber of deputies adopted a resolution urging Dauldier to take immediate measures to carry the war to victory "in close accord with our Allies."

The chamber forsook its wartime policy of unanimity, however, expressing its confidence by a 239-to-1 vote with about 300 deputies abstaining.

In Washington a peace bubble was pricked yesterday by President Roosevelt and his secretary, Stephen T. Early.

Asked about reports from Vatican sources that 11 points had been suggested as a basis for European peace at Sunday's axis conference, Early said there seemed to be no basis for published reports that give an authoritative basis for peace and added that "peace headlines would appear to be very empty."

NEW LUXURY SHIPS WILL MODERNIZE DELTA AIR SERVICE

PLANES TO CARRY 14 PASSENGERS, SPEED UP TRAVEL

Service Will Be Inaugurated Immediately Between Atlanta and Fort Worth, Officials Say.

Luxurious 14-passenger Douglas air liners, representing the last word in comfort, speed and beauty, will be placed in operation by the Delta Air Lines on all flights between Atlanta and Fort Worth, Texas, marking one of the greatest progressive steps in the history of the company, it was announced yesterday.

The new service, which is being inaugurated because of a sensational increase in business, is effective immediately, officials of the company said. The new planes represent an investment of approximately $500,000.

This marked expansion of operations also will include the addition of 10 pretty stewardesses to the air line's service. They will be headed by Miss Laura Wizark, chief stewardess. They have been attending a training school at the Atlanta municipal for the past six weeks.

Between Atlanta and Fort Worth the up-to-date air liners will make stops at Birmingham, Ala., Meridian, Miss., Shreveport, La., and Dallas, Texas.

The demands of the public, which is taking to the skyways more and more each year, make it necessary that the larger, more modern ships be placed on the lines west of Atlanta. Officials of the line said there had been a 50 per cent increase in business this year over the same period last year.

The comfortable new planes will carry 14 passengers and a crew of three—a captain, first officer and a stewardess.

They are all-metal, twin-motored planes with a wing spread of 85 feet. Each is 27 feet long and weighs nine tons.

These giant sky liners can skim through the clouds at a top speed of 205 miles per hour. They have a cruising speed of 180 miles per hour. Each has a gasoline tank with a capacity of 550 gallons, giving the planes a cruising range with full tanks of 1,500 miles.

Delta Air Line's history-making step will mean further laurels for Atlanta as an air center. Already it is becoming known as the southeastern hub of aviation, and this new service will be another stride in its march to the head of the nation's airports.

For the thousands who travel by air, it will mean more comfort, more convenience and all-around better service.

One of the outstanding features of these new planes is that they are sound-proof.

The air line spent $10,000 for passenger comfort on each ship. Each has soft, club-type reclining chairs. The color scheme is copper and maroon.

Suppose, for example, you are boarding a plane in Atlanta for Fort Worth. Once inside the plane you loll back in one of the cushioned seats that are as soft as a feather bed.

Up ahead of you, the pilot is warming up his motor. But you don't hear it. You might as well be sitting back in your favorite chair at home.

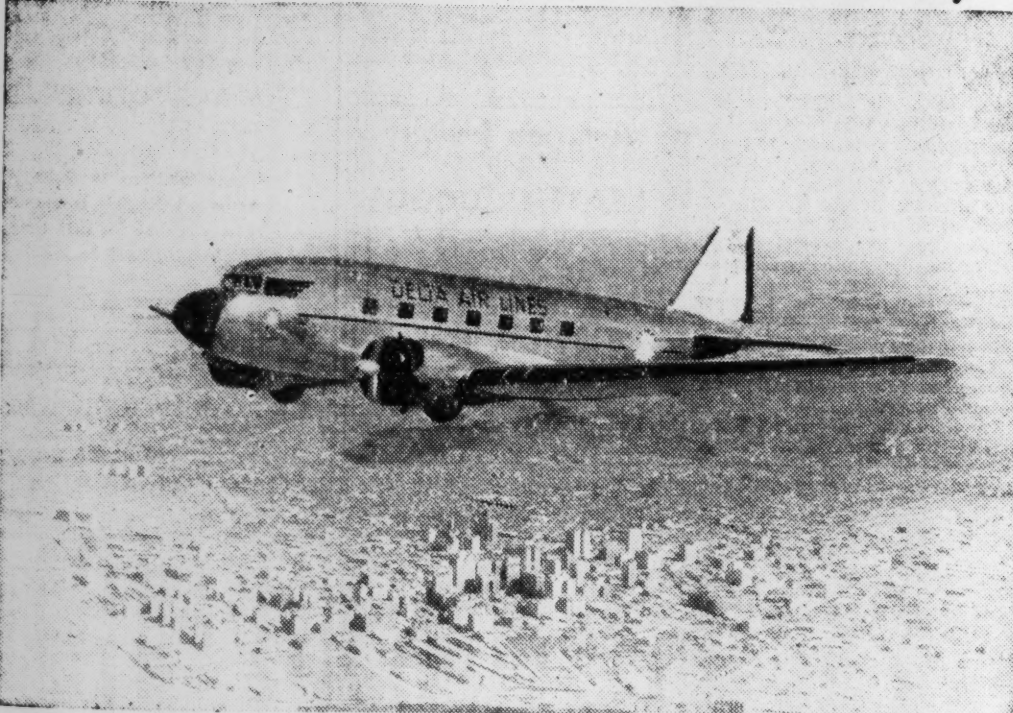

Then, there is the take-off. The pilot guns his motor. There is no terrific jerk or bump. The heavily upholstered seats take care of that. There is no excessive noise. If you have begun a conversation with the person next to you, there's no necessity for you to stop because of the roar of the motor.

Once in the air, you can enjoy the conveniences of the luxurious liners to an even greater extent. You can keep on talking. You can read. Or you can just watch the fleecy clouds around or below you.

Presently, one of the 10 pretty stewardesses is beside you to find if there is anything you need. She will get you something to eat. She will provide you with a book or newspaper. She will tell you about the airline, its historic route, the famous places you are passing over. If you are a mother with a baby, she will help you with the youngster.

In 58 minutes after leaving Atlanta you find you are circling over Birmingham. There will be a stop there. Then on to Meridian and Jackson and Shreveport and finally to Fort Worth. It was only six hours ago that you took off from Atlanta.

Like a Silver Streak ---- Across the Sky

Like a silver streak across the sky, this luxurious 14-passenger Douglas airliner wings its way over the Delta Air Lines route. It is one of several similar planes which will be placed in service on all flights between Atlanta and Fort Worth, Texas. The new service is effective immediately. The fleet of planes represents an investment of $500,000.

Miss Laura Wizark, chief stewardess of Delta Air Lines, makes a pretty picture as she stands beside one of the new Douglas 14-passenger air liners. She heads the group of 10 stewardesses who will see to it that passengers are comfortable as they skim through the clouds. The addition of stewardesses is a new service provided by the airline.

Here are Captain George R. Cushing, chief pilot of Delta Air Lines, and Captain Fred Ball, first officer, at the instrument panel of one of the new Douglas air liners. They are plotting their course in preparation for taking off from the Atlanta municipal airport for Birmingham, Ala. The panel has 263 instruments. Each flight instrument is in duplicate.

DELTA'S EMPIRE BEGAN IN 1925

Air Line Originated as Crop-Dusting Company.

The far-flung empire of Delta Air Lines began as a crop-dusting organization.

The company was founded in 1925 in Macon, Ga. Later it was found there were not enough big farms in this section to justify its crop-dusting operations. So it moved westward—to the delta country.

That is how it got its name. Heading this great empire today is C. E. Faulk, of Monroe, La. He is a former newspaper publisher. Other executives are C. E. Woolman, vice president and general manager, and Leigh C. Par-

Increased Air Facilities Help Southern Aviation

With increased facilities for air travel made possible by Delta Air Lines, air-minded citizens throughout the southland are finding opportunities that were not possible a decade or two ago.

For example, there are five flights out of Atlanta for Birmingham. It is possible for an Atlantan to jump in a plane, fly to Birmingham, transact business and be back in Atlanta in a few hours.

ker, vice president in charge of traffic, both of Monroe, La. Delta Air Lines began its air mail operations in 1934 with one schedule per day each way between Atlanta and Dallas and Atlanta and Charleston, S. C.

At present it has 16 flights per day. Its planes cover a distance of approximately 137,000 miles per month, or more than five times around the world. But despite its expansion into the air mail and passenger field, Delta Air Lines today is still the world's largest crop-dusting company. It manufactures its own planes for this purpose and maintains a fleet of 23.

It has even dusted crops in China and Peru.

DELTA PASSENGERS CAN GO ANYWHERE

Line Has Connections Leading to Almost Any Destination.

Travel information concerning virtually all parts of the world are available at Delta Air Line's Atlanta office at 91 Forsyth street, N. W.

Officials at this office dispense information concerning not only their company but other companies as well. They will route you to almost any place you want to go.

HISTORIC N. Y. HOTEL IS TO BE TORN DOWN

NEW YORK, March 19.—(AP)—One of Times Square's earliest landmarks—the old Cadillac hotel, at Broadway and 43d—is destined for the wrecking crew.

Built in 1883, it housed many figures in the theatrical world, including actor James O'Neill, famous for his "Count of Monte Cristo," and father of playwright Eugene O'Neill. It will be torn down after May 1, to make way for a store building.

Stewardess Must Combine 'Oomph and Intelligence

Duty at Training School Precedes Actual Service.

A Delta air stewardess is a combination of an "oomph" girl and a Phi Beta Kappa.

Why? Because she must have a lot of personality and no minimum amount of brains.

Here she is the way she stacks up as an "oomph" girl:

She must be single and between the ages of 21 and 26. She must be between five feet three inches, and five feet five inches tall. She must weigh between 100 and 120 pounds and be a registered nurse.

Now, what kind of training does she have to go through in order to get her diploma as a stewardess? First of all, she must know many things. She must know the technical as well as the practical side of flying.

Delta Air Lines sends her to a training school. One has been going on at the Atlanta municipal airport for the past six weeks.

There she learns about every department of her company. She finds out something about the duties of pilots. She learns about flying by the radio beam. She studies traffic schedules and routes, so that she might direct a passenger who inquires about his destination.

In short, she must know the whole picture of flying. About the only thing she doesn't have to have is accounting.

She must know the best ways of making the passenger comfortable. This is particularly important. If he wants food, she must be able to prepare it and bring it to him. If he wants a newspaper or book, she must have it at his side in an instant.

And if Mr. Passenger wants to ask about that fan-like contraption up in front, she must be able to tell him that is the propeller and explain the technicalities of its operation.

If he wants to know something about the history of the route over which he is passing, the stewardess must chat amiably about that, too.

In fact, there isn't much that an air stewardess doesn't have to be.

RADIO AIDS PILOT IN KEEPING COURSE

Man at Controls Keeps in Touch With Airports.

The pilot who sits at his controls and sends his ship hurtling through the darkness is never very much alone.

He is in constant touch with airports through his radio.

The radio department of Delta Air Lines is headed by Larry E. Campbell, superintendent of communications.

This department must keep in contact with every ship in flight. Every 30 minutes it gets a report from the ship concerning its position and the weather conditions.

The average time for handling a radio message by Delta Air Lines is three and one-half minutes.

The radio department also is used for obtaining passenger reservations.

Suppose, for example, that a passenger in Atlanta wants a reservation made for him in Birmingham, Ala. The radio could be called into play in making that reservation.

This department also is used for other company business.

MAYOR PRAISES DELTA AIR LINES

Move Will Add Prestige to Atlanta, He Declares.

Mayor Hartsfield yesterday praised Delta Air Lines for their progressive move in adding 14-passenger luxury air liners to their flights west of Atlanta.

The mayor, who has taken an active interest in the growth of Atlanta as an aviation center, said this latest step would mean added prestige for the southern air terminus.

"I think Delta Air Lines is to be congratulated for inaugurating such modern service," Mayor Hartsfield said. "Undoubtedly, it is another milestone in Atlanta's aviation history."

"For a number of years I have been keenly interested in seeing Atlanta take its place among the greatest airports of the country," he continued. "And if the air lines continue to improve their service as Delta Air Lines is doing, I am sure we can all look forward to the time when Atlanta takes the place in aviation that it deserves."

Post Office Department Pioneers in Transportation

Route Miles of Air Mail Service Multiply Rapidly.

From the earliest days of the republic, the United States Post Office Department has been a persistent pioneer in the encouragement of successive forms of transport, says "Little Known Facts."

Transportation by stagecoach, canal boat, pony express, railroads, ocean steamships and finally, airplanes, has been actively promoted by the department for the greater convenience of travelers and trade.

If the department were to claim the triumphs of civil aeronautics as the children of its dreams, no one could gainsay. In 21 years the route miles of its air mail service have multiplied by 31,400 per cent, the miles flown by 360,000.

These years have seen the service gradually expand to cover all 48 states, the territories and possessions and to reach 53 nations beyond the seven seas.

Notable in this advance has been the record made under the present postmaster general, James A. Farley, who, with the able support of men unsurpassed in devotion to their duty, has carried on the work of his predecessors in the best tradition of a matchless postal service.

MOTORS REPAIRED EVERY 500 HOURS

Maintenance Department Has Charge of Overhauling.

Motors in Delta Air Lines planes are overhauled every 500 flying hours to give the passengers the maximum in safety.

This work is carried on by the maintenance department, headed by W. C. Miles, supervisor of maintenance.

Although the motor might not need going over after 500 hours of purring through the clouds, nevertheless, out she comes. Every part is worked over thoroughly. And when it is reassembled it is correct to one-tenth of an inch, which is pretty near perfect.

When the motor goes back in, a new instrumental panel goes with it. This is to insure correctness in every detail.

Propellers also are rebuilt every 500 hours. The balance of a propeller must be so accurate that it will stop at any point on a 360-degree circle and start turning again if the weight of a dollar bill is placed on one of its blades.

After each trip, Delta's ships are given thorough inspections. Then there are 25-hour, 50-hour and 100-hour checks.

Finally, when a plane has completed 2,500 hours of flying, it is completely rebuilt.

PILOTS AVERAGE 42 YEARS OF AGE

He Usually Has Family and Must Keep Fit.

What does an average Delta Air Lines pilot look like?

He is a man about 42 years of age. He is married, probably with one or two children. He is a family man, despite the fact he is away from home part of the time.

The pilot works not more than 85 hours in any one month and not more than 1,000 hours during a whole year.

All pilots are responsible to Captain George R. Cushing, chief pilot. His duty is to see that they are familiar with the proper flight procedure. He must have a crew that keeps up with the most up-to-date navigational methods.

The Delta pilot is a healthy man. He undergoes a physical examination every month.

He never stops going to school. He studies instrument flying and navigation. And every six months he takes an examination on what he has learned.

AIR LINES COVER
HISTORIC ROUTESPassenger Can Travel From Charleston to Fort Worth.

Planes of Delta Air Lines cover one of the most historic routes in the country.

Beginning at Charleston, S. C., the cradle of the War Between the States, you can wing your way over territory that is rich in historic background and legend.

You could stop off at Augusta, then fly to Atlanta, famed as the locale of the Battle of Atlanta and the home of Margaret Mitchell, author of the historical novel, "Gone With the Wind."

In a few minutes there is Birmingham, and Meridian, Miss. You fly along the old Jackson trail, made famous by Andrew Jackson. You reach Jackson, Miss., once known as "Chimneyville," because only chimneys were left standing after the War Between the States.

There is a jump across the Mississippi river, widely known as the "Father of Waters." There is Monroe, La., and Shreveport. Presently you are in the French-Indian country.

All along this line there are air connections with other parts of the country.

Shifting back to Charleston, there are connections with Eastern Air Lines for Florida and New York.

In Atlanta there are connections for New Orleans, Mexico, Chicago, New York, Washington and Florida.

At Birmingham you may connect with Eastern Air Lines for Memphis and the Florida west coast.

At Jackson, Miss., are connections with the Chicago and Southern Air Lines for New Orleans, Memphis, St. Louis and Chicago.

At Dallas are connections with Braniff Airways for Austin, San Antonio, Houston, Brownsville and Mexico, and with American Air Lines for El Paso, Tucson, Ariz., and Los Angeles.

At Los Angeles are connections with Oklahoma City, Kansas City and Chicago.

Finally, at Tulsa, Okla., are connections with St. Louis and Chicago.

of Safety Devices.

The instrument panel on the giant 14-passenger air liners to be placed in service between Atlanta and Fort Worth by Delta Air Lines has 263 instruments.

Of course, each flight instrument is in duplicate. This is to insure the captain of proper navigational information at all times. Just to give you an idea of what the captain has to guide him, take a look at one of these instrument boards.

There is a magnetic compass, a directional gyro compass, an artificial horizon, a turning bank indicator, rate of climb indicator, air speed indicator, throttles, and radio beam receiver.

The panel has two altimeters, one of which always remains at sea level. The other indicates the altitude of the airport at which the plane is landing.

There are others that are too numerous to mention.

A glance at one of these instrument panels will convince you that the safety of air travel today is a far cry from what it was a decade ago.

The flight control office is an important cog in Delta Air Line's far-reaching system.

METHODIST GROUP RAPS FLOGGINGS, ANY USE OF MASKS

'Disgraceful to Civilized People' and 'Humiliating to Community,' Conference Leaders Say

Condemnation of Fulton county's floggings, and an implied condemnation of the Ku Klux Klan was contained in a resolution passed yesterday by Methodist leaders in district conference at Grace Methodist church here.

Deplored and condemning the floggings as "disgraceful to a civilized people" and "humiliating to the community," the conference further resolved that:

"We deplore the use of masks by any group, for we believe it is a suggestion of other than legal methods and open courts for the apprehension and punishment of crime."

The resolution commended "the present efforts being made by the officers of the law to find and punish the perpetrators of these crimes," and urged that "the investigation continue until the individuals and groups found guilty shall be apprehended."

Passed unanimously, the resolution was introduced by the Rev. Nat G. Long, pastor of Glenn Memorial church, and was signed by Edward G. Mackay, First Methodist; Peter Manning, Inman Park; Paul A. Turner, Trinity; Lester Rumble, St. Mark; J. Lee Allgood, St. Paul; B. H. Smith, secretary of the American Bible Society; Mrs. Birdie V. Moore and Mrs. M. E. Tilly.

The conference elected Jere Wells as lay leader for the district, with Dr. J. C. Wardlaw and W. J. Richards as associates, and James F. Cox as secretary.

Smith L. Johnson, Cherokee county layman, appealed to the ministers of Atlanta to lead a fight for the restoration of the prohibition law.

Declaring that bootlegging is now "50 times worse" than in prohibition days, Mr. Johnson, whose county is dry, declared:

"The repeal of the prohibition law in Georgia turned loose more hellishness than any other conceivable thing."

'Special Edition' Kills Out Deaths But Death Wins

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., March 19. (P)—There was a "special edition" of the Springfield Leader and Press—one copy.

It was carried Friday to the bedside of Edson K. Bixby, editor of Springfield's morning and afternoon dailies. Seriously ill with heart disease, he continued to read the papers. Friday's regular paper recounted the deaths of two close friends. So the special edition was run off to eliminate those two stories.

That was the last newspaper he saw. He lost consciousness and died Sunday.

A passenger with her husband, who is president of the Miller Cap Factory in St. Paul, Mrs. Miller died of cerebral hemorrhage. Her body was sent to St. Paul for rites and burial Wednesday.

Mrs. Miller, a native of Russia, had lived in this country 54 years. She and her husband had been visiting in Miami seven weeks.

6,600 Miles of Roads Built Or Improved by WPA in State

Transportation From Airfields to Sidewalks Helped.

The WPA has greatly improved transportation facilities in Georgia—all the way from the people who walk to the people who fly. Chief of L. MacDougall, state WPA administrator, declared yesterday in the first of a series of reports on the accomplishments of the work-relief agency since it began July 1, 1935.

The agency has built or improved more than 6,600 miles of roads, mostly from farms to markets; has constructed 1,542 wooden bridges and viaducts, which, if they were laid end to end, would make a span 17,335 feet long; built 21,541 culverts; constructed 1,131 miles of highway drainage; rebuilt 732 miles of existing drainage; and laid 82 miles of pipe, his report stated.

Sidewalk Projects. For the pedestrian, the WPA laid 305 miles of new sidewalks, and reconstructed 85.5 miles of sidewalks. It laid 455.5 miles of curbs and 97 miles of gutters.

For the safety of the motorists, the agency placed 355 light standards along 38 miles of traffic arteries, and eliminated four grade crossings. Further, it erected 319 traffic signs, and removed 24.8 miles of streetcar and railroad tracks.

For the eye of the motorists, 284.5 miles of highway were landscaped by the WPA.

Since 1935, the WPA helped de-

NO 'DEFENSE FUND' KNOWN TO SHERIFF

There Is 'Absolutely No Reason for Any,' Aldredge Declares.

Sheriff Mott Aldredge declared yesterday he had been unable to find any basis for statements that a "defense fund" was being raised for deputy sheriffs who might prove to have been involved in floggings.

"There is absolutely no reason for any such fund," he declared. "No one has been indicted and I cannot fathom the source of the report. It would be time enough to act when the need arose."

A similar point of view was expressed by Kenneth Murrell, president of the Fulton County Employees' Union.

"We are for law enforcement and against floggings," he said. "If we were to raise such a fund we would be in the position of opposing what we really favor."

AIMS OF SOCIETY FOR CRIPPLES TOLD

Mrs. Ruth Campbell, secretary of the Crippled Children's Society of Fulton county, was guest speaker yesterday at meetings of the Atlanta Optimist Club and the Parent-Teachers' Association of Forrest Avenue school.

Mrs. Campbell spoke before the Optimists at their luncheon meeting and addressed the P-T-A. during the afternoon. Her subject at both meetings was "Aims and Accomplishments of the Crippled Children's Society."

WOMAN PASSENGER DIES ABOARD TRAIN

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

MARIETTA, Ga., March 19.—Mrs. J. A. Miller, 68, wife of a St. Paul, Minn., manufacturer, died near here yesterday on a train, while en route from Miami to her home.

A passenger with her husband, who is president of the Miller Cap Factory in St. Paul, Mrs. Miller died of cerebral hemorrhage. Her body was sent to St. Paul for rites and burial Wednesday.

Mrs. Miller, a native of Russia, had lived in this country 54 years. She and her husband had been visiting in Miami seven weeks.

VELOP AVIATION BY CONSTRUCTING 15 NEW LANDING FIELDS WHICH ENCOMPASSED 1,602 ACRES. WORK CREWS BUILT 67,310 FEET OF NEW RUNWAYS, 24,500 OF WHICH WERE PAVED AND 42,810 OF WHICH WERE BASED AND SODDED. TEN HANGARS, WITH CAPACITY FOR 115 AIRPLANES, WERE ERRECTED, AND ANOTHER WAS RECONSTRUCTED. SIX ADMINISTRATION BUILDINGS WERE BUILT AT AIRPORTS.

Floodlighted Airfields. Three airfields were floodlighted with 221 boundary lights and 323 runway markers. Four runway beacons were built.

Roadwork included 6,100 miles of farm-to-market routes, 450 miles of city streets and alleys, and about 35 miles of roads in parks and airports.

MacDougall said that the WPA has given a total of 2,117,708 man-months of employment since 1935, which, if translated into wages, would mean a year's support for more than 150,000 families.

Pointing out that the scope of the WPA work is so wide that it must be dealt with in phases, MacDougall said that reports on construction and improvements to public buildings and other facilities for the use of all citizens, and the non-manual or "white-collar" projects, will be made later.

He urged that communities and local governmental agencies devote thought to planning a long-range WPA program, because WPA not only provides work for the unemployed but must be of a nature which will be of permanent value to all citizens.

MARSHAL CONFIRMED. WASHINGTON, March 19.—(P) The senate confirmed today the appointment of Henry C. Wal-thour to be marshal for the southern district of Georgia.

Pointing out that the scope of the WPA work is so wide that it must be dealt with in phases, MacDougall said that reports on construction and improvements to public buildings and other facilities for the use of all citizens, and the non-manual or "white-collar" projects, will be made later.

ITS EXCLUSIVE Hand Sewed Seam IDENTIFIES IT BEFORE THE WORLD

Anyone can tell the original Nettleton Algonquin at a glance. In no other shoe do you find the character of its HAND-SEWED seam (Patented).

Its wonderful flexibility and glove-like fit cradle your foot in slipper-like comfort. Its smart "streamlined" styling marks it distinctly "the shoe of tomorrow."

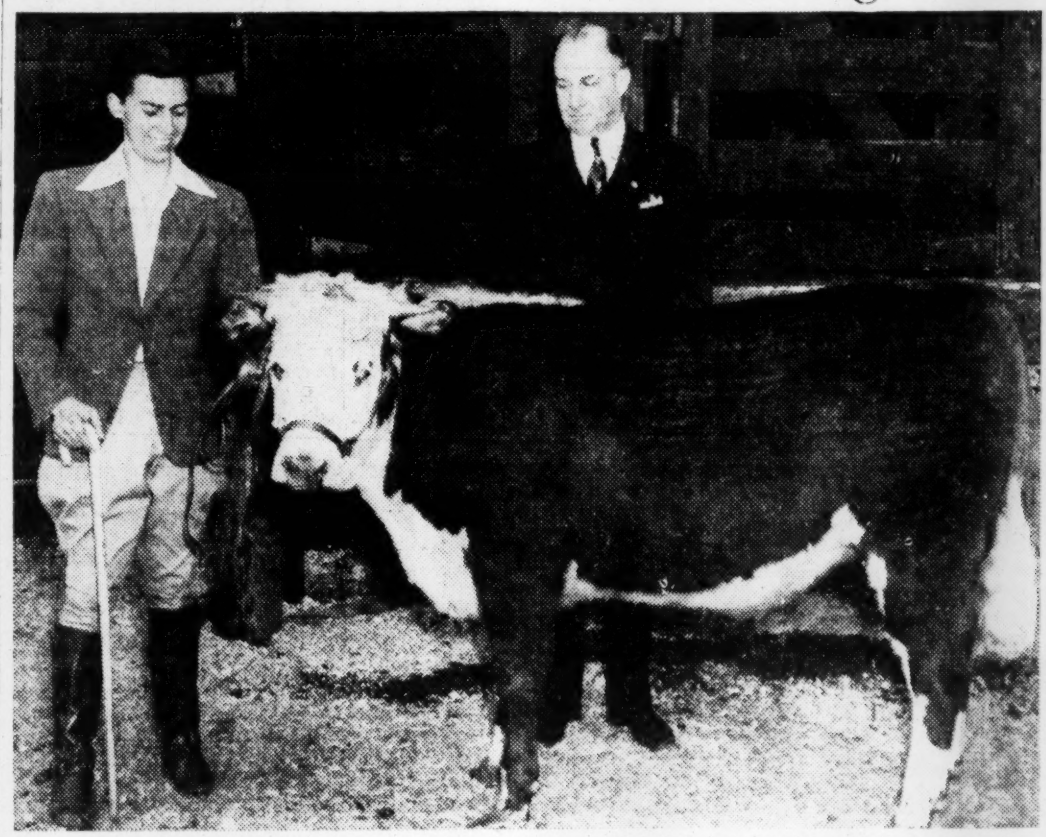

It started a fashion, but is never quite duplicated. The vogue is for the fine craftsmanship of its hand-sewed seam. Try a pair.

Mystery Death Hits Blackbirds Flying Above Army Airbase

SHREVEPORT, La., March 19. (P)—Blackbirds by the hundreds—the large, red-tipped kind—dropped mysteriously dead from the sky at Barksdale Field today, cluttering the army airbase so thickly that its police were called out to clear the ground.

A soldier said large droves of the birds would suddenly break flight and plop to the ground, as if struck simultaneously by deadly paralysis.

A number of the birds were taken to the post hospital where flight surgeons launched autopsies.

SWALLOWS RETURN TO MISSION ON TIME SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Cal., March 19.—(P)—This is St. Joseph's Day and the swallows of San Juan Capistrano Mission came home on schedule.

Although they left for the south last year nearly two months earlier than the traditional time for their departure—St. John's Day, October 23—flocks of the tiny birds began arriving on time this morning.

Within half an hour 300 of them were contesting with sparrows which had taken over the nests under the eaves.

The battle between the swallows and the sparrows was fierce, as usual, with at least one casualty among the sparrows.

Two or three hundred persons waited at the ancient adobe mission to witness the arrival of the birds. Three or four times that many were in and about the adjacent town.

PIKES PEAK SWALLOWS ARRIVE ON SCHEDULE COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., March 19.—(P)—Pikes Peak's traditional harbingers of spring arrived right on schedule today.

The advance guard of swallows soared in from the south and fluttered to their summer roosting places on the lofty gateway rocks of the Garden of the Gods, just as

U. S. INCOME TAX RETURNS INCREASE BY 26 PER CENT

WASHINGTON, March 19.—(P)—Early returns on federal income tax collections today showed a 26 per cent increase over last year.

The treasury disclosed that $319,090,247 of income taxes were recorded on the treasury books on March 16, with some of the heaviest collections yet to be reported by regional offices. On the same date last year, collections amounted to $253,038,051.

In March, 1939, collections recorded in the first 16 days of the month were approximately half the $505,000,000 received during the whole month. If this year's March 16 returns are doubled at the end of the month, collections will total $638,000,000.

Since the current returns were based on 1939 incomes, officials said the larger returns reflected better business of that year. Another factor was federal taxation, for the first time, of salaries of state and local government employees.

The treasury has not made public its goal for March income taxes, but some experts indicated that $650,000,000 yield would be in excess of budget estimates.

SALLY SAVER PLANS LECTURE AT SCHOOL

Gordon P.-T. A. Will Hear Constitution Foods Editor Tomorrow.

Sally Saver's weekly spring cooking class will be held at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning at the John B. Gordon school, 1205 Metropolitan avenue, S. E., for the Gordon P.-T. A.

Easter meals will be featured, and Miss Saver will demonstrate the preparation of an oven meal of baked ham, sweet potato soufflé, and green peas. Another meal which she will cook at the same time, designed as a time-saver, is a top-of-slow meal prepared in a deep well cooker and consisting of a pot roast, onions, carrots and a spiced pudding.

Pretty springtime luncheons will be included in the lecture demonstration, with variations of salads. Egg salad and a party salad of chicken, almonds, and diced pineapple molded in mayonnaise and heavy cream with gelatin will be prepared by Miss Saver. The sea food will be crab meat in sea shells.

Miss Saver will discuss ingredients, recipes, and buying during the demonstration, which will be carried on in her portable kitchen. All the food will be given away, as will products donated by local merchants.

Hitler's Plan for Defeat of Allies Held 'Overwhelming' by Expert

Dictators Pulled Dozen Rabbits From Hat, Observer Asserts

By DEWITT MACKENZIE,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

One can only venture into superlatives and characterize as "overwhelming" the magnitude and completeness and certainty of the Nazi program for the defeat of the Allies which has gone echoing about the world out of the Brenner Pass meeting between Hitler and Mussolini.

To put it on thumb-nail, Fuehrer

Hitler expects to form a ring of neutral nations about Germany like a vast Siegfried line, so that he can snap his fingers at England and France. Also, organization of the Balkans will, together with mighty Russia, provide the Fatherland with food and military supplies and thereby render the blockade impotent.

Frisky Rabbits.
In short, the totalitarian leaders pulled a dozen frisky rabbits out of the hat in the brief space of a two and a half hour conference, held amidst the most profound secrecy of Il Duce's private car in the snow-swept pass.

But the conference didn't remain a secret for another two and a half hours, or at least a good portion of it didn't. Berlin and Rome, being thoroughly acquainted with details, promptly tossed onto the table all the cards for what normally would be a highly confidential operation in diplomacy.

At this point you and I suddenly realize that the disclosure of this highly dramatic setting is "overwhelming" because it is meant to be. When we have readjusted our perspective we see that this "broadcasting" of the conference results was for several purposes, among them being:

1. To impress the world at large with the importance of this coup, especially the European neutrals which Hitler wishes to get into his fold.

2. To stimulate the morale of the people at home.

3. To try to set the Allies thinking more vigorously in terms of peace.

4. Probably to act as a smoke screen for peace suggestions—or at least information necessary to the framing of peace suggestions—which special American Ambassador Welles likely will bring back to President Roosevelt.

Admittedly, the situation would be changed greatly if the Nazi program were carried through to a finality. But that is the hitch—the benefits of the plan are largely potentialities which are still to be worked out. I mean, it's one thing to talk about throwing a ring of neutrals about a country, and it's another thing to do it.

APRIL SET BY F. D. R. FOR CANCER CONTROL

WASHINGTON, March 19.—(P)—President Roosevelt proclaimed April as cancer control month today and urged a "concerted effort" to impress upon the American people "the necessity of a national program for the control of cancer to the end that suffering may be relieved and life preserved."

The chief executive invited governors to issue similar proclamations. His proclamation noted that cancer was second among the causes of death in the United States.

TWO NAZIS ARE FINED FOR CANAL TRESPASS

CRISTOBAL, Canal Zone, March 19.—(P)—Two Germans, Ingeborg Waltraut Gutmann and Gisbert Wilhelm Groos, were fined $250 each today for wilfully entering and trespassing on United States fortifications at Galeta Island and Fort Randolph, Canal Zone.

They pleaded guilty in the Canal Zone district court after Judge Bunk Gardner dismissed charges of espionage against Gutmann and Groos upon recommendation of the district attorney.

Father Spends All of Sons' Salaries

By Caroline Chatfield.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD: I'm asking advice for my mother, who doesn't know what to do. My brothers, ages 20 and 22, work and father expects them to turn over to him every cent they make. They wouldn't mind so much except that he spends it all for drink and comes home at all hours of the night raising a ruckus, waking everybody up and quarreling with anybody that will listen to him. The last time it happened father told the boys they could get out as he was through with them. They want mother and me to leave father and let them rent a house for us and support us and poor mother doesn't know what to do. Father does feed us but that's all. Mother isn't strong and she can't stand much more of this. FANNY.

ANSWER:

Wouldn't all of you be better satisfied if you tried one more plan before you broke up your home? No doubt there's a Family Service Association in your town, maintained by the community to help untangle just such snarls as your family has got into. At your request they will send a trained social worker into your home and you will be amazed at how many practical suggestions will be offered.

Your father must be more reasonable with the boys. He must be made to understand that he has no right to their earnings unless they are willing to share with him. He must be made to respect the privacy of his family. If he continues to be unreasonable and stubborn, perhaps you can put him where he can't get anything to drink, where he will have no need for money—if you know what I mean.

Time was when the drunkard's family had to fold their hands and take it, or fold their tents and steal away in the night. No more. The sciences of medicine and psychiatry frequently know the answer to the drunk habit. At least they can do something about it which fact in itself gives comfort and hope to the family that bears the brunt of the drunkard's habits. Sometimes it is merely a matter of giving the wife and children a new slant on the man's weakness.

I knew of one case where the social workers failed to stop papa's drinking but convinced his family that the age-old advice "Pay him no mind" was the answer to all their fretting problems. They took the advice and at present are living happily. You see when we are very close to a his head, which often helps the patients to use their heads and better judgment, when our emotions are involved, we can't always think clearly nor foresee the result of our failure to use our heads. There's the genius social science. The social scientist uses avoid heartaches.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

TODAY'S GARDEN TIP

The ravages of the winter may be seen on gardenias now. There are three things to do at once. First, remove all limbs that are dead, doing this carefully and thoroughly. Second, strip all brown leaves from the plant, and finally, fertilize with a little nitrate of soda, as a stimulant. The Constitution's Annual Spring Garden School will be conducted by Mrs. Fletcher Pearson Crown on March 26-28 at the Atlanta Women's Club.

THESE WOMEN! By d'Alessio

"Alderman McGargle is here to dispel all your suspicions about politicians."

MY DAY: Spring Comes To The White House

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON.—At last I have seen my first sign of spring. In our nicely protected garden back of the White House, crocuses are out. I walked out there yesterday to show the grounds to a visitor and there were the first little yellow flowers. The air, too, is soft and my fur scarf felt really too warm when I went out this morning. This has been a going-away day, for two guests left at 8:30 and another one at a little after 11 o'clock.

The President is keeping his appointments, but still stays in the house. He refused to exert himself yesterday to the extent of seeing "Gone With the Wind," so that experience is still before him. I did, however, this time, see it from beginning to end. I think it is a beautiful picture as far as color, acting and characterizations are concerned, but the horror of the hospital scenes seems to me dreadful. What it must be to have insufficient supplies and no anesthetics, nothing which renders human suffering. That could happen today and the thought of it is appalling. Just to die, never seemed to me so terrible, though one might have preferences as to the way in which one might prefer to do so, but to endure horrible physical pain when one knows that there are ways of alleviating it, seems so senseless and wasteful.

After the press conference this morning, I went with a group of congressmen's wives, Mrs. Dorothy McAllister and Mrs. May Evans, of the women's division of the Democratic national committee, to visit my nearest public school. The District of Columbia has had two surveys in the past few years of the public school system. There is a plan now for a seven-year building program which will eliminate the school I saw this morning, by consolidating it with two others into one really adequate building which can be run at a more reasonable cost.

In the meantime, the children in this building play in winter in a damp and fairly dark cellar room. Those who are given lunch, eat in the same type of room. Even the tiniest tots have to go down into the cellar to reach the toilets. There is no auditorium, no gymnasium and in spite of years of study, a modern curriculum has not yet been adopted. It looked to me as though the teachers here were doing all they could to make their old-fashioned and somewhat unsanitary surroundings attractive and interesting, but they were certainly laboring under difficulties.

We then went to visit the recreation department. They do not feel that they are doing an adequate job for the District of Columbia children, but thanks to the interest of Mr. Frederic Delano and other public spirited citizens, there is a co-ordination of effort here which has resulted in a good program, though there should be more of it.

One of the students chosen under the new cultural program for better understanding between South America and ourselves, Miss Esther Mathews, came to lunch today. She goes to Chile shortly and I think she will make good use of her time and be a good representative of our American student body.

Doctor Calls Prescription Systematic Relief for Cold

By Dr. William Brady.

Perhaps some doctors still prescribe a saline laxative for patients coming down with colds—any of the common respiratory infections—who knows at that stage what it will prove to be? Just between ourselves, and don't let it go any further, that preliminary purge, in my opinion, is based on these fundamental principles:

1. It has always been done, and hence always should be done. We must preserve the traditions.
 2. It impresses the patient that the doctor is doing something for him. Just what I have never been able to ascertain.
 3. It occupies the patient's mind sufficiently to keep him from wondering what really ails him anyway and from asking the doctor embarrassing questions.
 4. It allows sufficient time for the illness to develop so that presently the doctor can pronounce it meningitis, infantile paralysis, measles, influenza or whatever and everybody will be so concerned that no one remembers the first guess was "just a heavy cold."
- Even if you call it cri from the outset, as I contend every citizen should—cri (kree) means common respiratory infection, of course you don't know yet which respiratory infection but you are honest about it and give every one fair warning that he comes within your conversational spray range at his own peril—even if you call it cri there is still no logical reason why you should take a laxative or cathartic of any kind. However, in practice, if I think the patient thinks he knows more than I know about that, I interpose no serious objection to a dose of his favorite physic. It is not worth while to reason about such a thing with a sick man.
- No, indeed, when a human being is careless enough to do as I say I would do if I had the cri, I do not stand around uttering cynicisms concerning the inefficiency of medical treatment. On the contrary I contrive to keep the

Change Food Habits, Give Up Diet

By Ida Jean Kain.

This is a great country for clubs and there are some with unique membership requirements—a vanishing hairline, bachelordom, or the talent for telling a tall tale, or for judging good food! But so far as I know there is no such organization devoted solely to the good riddance of avoidupois and I propose that we start one, and that we call it "The 100-Pound Club."

The first qualification for membership would be the registration, on a reliable scale, of 100 pounds too much weight. And the second and last, a sincere desire on the part of the applicant to slim down to her old sylph. There are more eligibles than you might suppose.

The club ought to work 100 per cent! Most overweighters are extremely gregarious—that's why they become overweight! When a crowd of people get together, what do they do? They eat—sooner or later. But it is a question which they enjoy more, the food or the company. Now, if reducing could be given a similar social aspect, it would be much more pleasant.

Members of the "100-pound club" could use the column for an exchange of their experiences and, no matter how hard the going, feel certain they had plenty of company. From the letters of women who have already reduced 100 pounds, it would seem that the loneliness of the undertaking was worse even than the long-term calorie counting!

If you qualify as a member of this club, you will not have to diet! Dismiss the thought from your mind! You will have to completely change your food habits—the wrong food habits made you overweight in the first place. Unless you changed them, you couldn't expect to lose very much weight or to keep it lost.

You might as well knock what's ahead of you before taking the first step—and that is a visit to your doctor. Have him check your heart and blood pressure before you make up your program. Your doctor will not object to your adopting highly protective menus that improve your health by decreasing your weight. But whether or not you are able to take general exercise will depend on your physical condition.

You must, however, take specific exercises to strengthen the abdominal muscles so that the lost fat is replaced with good, healthy muscle tissue. Otherwise, as weight is lost, the abdominal organs will sag. Abdominal exercises need not be strenuous. In tomorrow's article, some of the best and easiest will be given for you 100-pound overweighters.

You can plan to lose your excess poundage in from 12 to 18 to 24 months. If you try to do it in 12 months, you will have to take your reducing very seriously. . . . you must have your doctor's permission to lose that fat, and must adhere to a rigorous program of massage and supervised exercise.

You can lose your 100 pounds in 18 to 24 months simply by changing your food habits so that you draw on stored fat for 4,000 calories per week. That is not difficult to do. You may either pattern your new lower weight menus on the 1,200 calorie diet given daily in the column, or on the "Twenty-One Day Diet," available in leaflet form. It will be advisable for you to supplement your prolonged low calorie menus with a concentrated A, B, C, G capsule.

At the outset, note both weight and measurements, then in a month note them again and send in your report. We will check up on your progress regularly and offer suggestions through the column that will enable you to lose more rapidly—or, in some cases, not quite so fast.

Send large stamped envelope to Miss Kain, in care of The Atlanta Constitution, with adequate postage, for "Complete Calorie Chart," "Twenty-One Day Diet," and "Weight and Measurement Record."

Spirit of Easter Depicted By Gala Perfume Packages

By Lillian Mae

Easter! What music to our ears, this year particularly, when our city has been through the travail of a winter such as the southland has seldom seen, and which we hope is such a freak that it will never be repeated.

Easter conjures before our eyes a vision of new life—verdant lawns and jonquills; singing birds and sunshine.

The cosmetic and perfume manufacturers have outdone themselves this year in presenting the most unique and attractive packages ever; for the Easter season. Whether you are making gifts or receiving them, there is nothing more appropriate than perfume and cologne in new spring raiment. You'll have to "strut yourself" if your Easter togs are as gay and attractive as these boxes and bottles.

First, one of the old English firms whose perfumes are known the world over as standing for dignity and all that's fine, has prepared a trio of its favorite perfumed colognes, housed in a hexagonal-shaped box which is so colorful that it resembles an old-fashioned flower garden, with myriad little heads peeping through, each attempting to rise just a bit above the others. Inside, the three bottles, each topped with a different colored plastic cap, are arranged in tier-style, sitting on a base of gold. One of these scents is reminiscent of the lotus lavender, another of April violets, and the third is a bouquet fragrance you'll not be able to resist. All this costs only $1.50.

True White Hyacinth. Another firm, after much experimentation, has successfully captured the elusive odor of the white hyacinth and now presents it in a cologne the scent of which is so true to the natural bloom that the odor is scarcely discernible from a real white hyacinth. The package itself is most attractive—the very beautiful bottle being wrapped in true Easter style with even a card ready for your name and that of the recipient whose heart will skip a few beats when the package is received and a few more when the bottle is opened.

Flower Cart. Were you ever in Paris in spring? And did you see the sweetly laden wheelbarrows that are rolled along the streets?

Well, there's the most precious little barrow in pastel shades—mine is pink and blue—filled with a dram bottle of perfume in floral scents, and overlaid with dripping cascades of exquisite little blossoms—mine are the daintiest little blue forget-me-nots.

This is really something not only to write home about, but to take home with you if you would take the real Easter spirit into your family circle. Incidentally, this little perfume flower cart is only $1.50. The whole is in an attractive pink and blue box.

My next article will tell you of more Easter finds, but phone me today for the names of these charmers. Write me if you do not live in Atlanta, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

This Unusual Combination Makes Colorful Casserole

By Sally Saver.

Colorful and delicious is a casserole of peas, shrimp and mushrooms. It's an unusual combination, but one you'll be sure to like. Try it, made like this:

Casserole of Peas, Shrimp and Mushrooms.

Combine equal portions of canned or fresh-cooked shrimp with canned peas and fresh or canned mushrooms. Arrange in layers in a buttered casserole. Add sufficient medium white sauce to cover and bake for about 30 minutes in a moderate oven. Canned mushrooms or celery soup may be substituted for the medium white sauce.

In arranging layers have peas on top and garnish casserole or casseroles, if individual ones are being used, with whole shrimp.

Another casserole you'll like is created of carrots and celery. For it use 1 cup cooked, diced carrots, 1 cup cooked diced celery, 1-2 cup buttered bread crumbs, seasonings and 1 cup medium white sauce. Arrange cooked vegetables in layers, pour over it the seasoned white sauce, top with buttered crumbs and bake 20 minutes.

Questions about specific food problems will be answered personally by Sally Saver. Write or phone The Constitution or Walnut 6565.

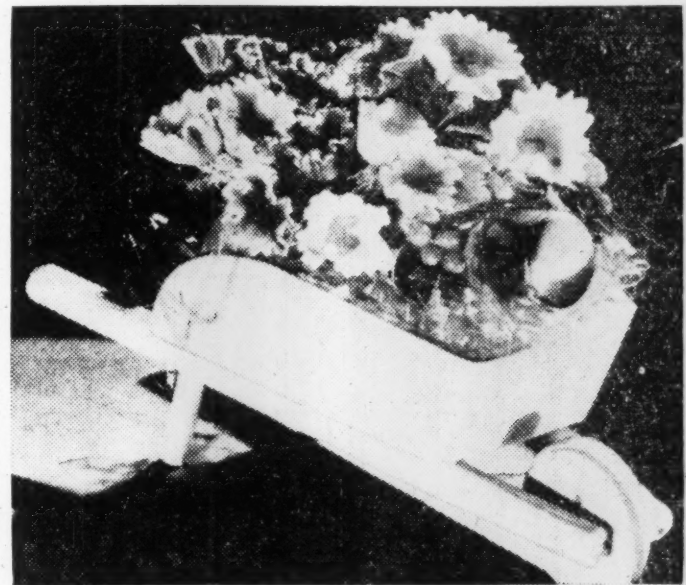

Generally speaking, there probably isn't a single article in your attic that is absolutely useless. Everything has some value to someone. Make a list of your discarded articles and turn them into cash with a Constitution Want Ad.

Have you a household problem to solve? Write your question clearly, sign your name and address, enclose a three-cent postage stamp and mail to the Woman's Editor of The Constitution's Washington Service Bureau, 1015 15th street, Washington, D. C., for a reply. Three of the most interesting answers will be printed here daily. Don't telephone; write as directed.

Fashions Turn To Fig Leaves-In Jeweled Accessories

Fashions are back to the fig-leaf again. Which does not mean that you will wear less clothes this spring. It's just that Paris, though still in the dress business, features fig leaves in jeweled accessories. Being shown are the new "Eve's leaves" jewels with everything, from tweed coats to lace-trimmed gowns. Several leading jewelry houses created a pair of huge golden leaf clips veined in diamonds. For afternoon gowns, one stylist inspired designing of sentimental flower clusters such as forget-me-nots in blue enamel with green enamel leaves. Attached to such a brooch is a tiny gold nametag on which your identification is engraved—if you live in a warring country.

The South American influence is most pronounced in costume jewelry today. You will find it expressed in the colorful costume pieces inspired by the plumage of South American birds: Incarnet (brown), Coriole (gold), Tronico (rose red), Rubicole (rose pink) and Zurey (blue). Festoons are a new touch in this jewelry collection—round clips with dangles which can be attached to the sides of turbans to look like earrings. Muchacha seeds are chic contributors to the South American success—the same seeds you remember from childhood, only all gilded up with sequins and shiny beads. In the daytime muchacha seed jewelry looks wonderful with playclothes, pastel linens and such. In the evening it changes character to become very glamorous as the sequins pick up the glints of brilliant lights.

This perfume flower cart will wheel the spirit of Easter into the heart of any woman. A gift of this dainty, floral-scented perfume will make you as gay and smiling as Jean Arthur, who stars in Columbia's "Too Many Husbands."

Tennis Star's Wife Dislikes Tennis

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, March 19. — George Raft is discussing with a couple of buddies at the Hollywood Brown Derby his current romance with Norma Shearer. His voice is not as soft as it might be, and I hear some of the conversation. Says Mr. Raft, "What do you think of my girl? . . . Don't you think she's bloomed? I think she's wonderful." He is asked the usual question, "Marriage? It all depends." At this interesting point, George calls for his check and departs.

Bette Davis is surrounded by males at a recent party. Among those sitting at her feet is Anatole Litvak. Miriam Hopkins, clad in magnificent furs, makes one of those late and spectacular entrances. She stands at the door for a moment, looks slowly around the room, sees her ex-husband gazing adoringly at Bette — and exits.

Fred Perry will bring counter-suit for divorce against wife Helen Vinson. He, too, will charge desertion, claiming that Helen refused to accompany him on his mushroom or celery soup may be substituted for the medium white sauce.

SALLY FORTH Says:

Louis Johnson Acts As Host
At Sea Island House Party

ATLANTA VISITORS at Sea Island Beach continue to set a gay social pace during these early spring days. The liveliest visitors are those among the younger contingent, some of whom are visiting Mrs. Edwin Johnson at her lovely beach home. Her son, Louis, who is enjoying a spring vacation from Yale, has as his guests Miss Anne Cox, daughter of former Governor and Mrs. James Cox, of Dayton, Ohio; James Furniss, of New York, who also is a student at Yale, and Harry Harmon, of Atlanta.

Anne was the honor guest Saturday evening at the buffet supper at which Mrs. Johnson was hostess, the guests having included 40 young people, a number of whom are Yale students visiting M. Chaplin Jennings, of Sewickley, Pa.

Dan Blake Hodgson, who also attends Yale, arrived to join his fellow students at the island on Monday. He is visiting his mother, Mrs. Kate Hodgson, at Judy King's beach house. He was accompanied by James Kieran, son of John Kieran, of "Information, please" fame, and James Hodgson, of New York, who, by the way, is no relation of Dan. Also joining the group will be Edith Hodgson, who will go to Sea Island to be with her mother and brother through Easter.

Dan and his guests were complimented Monday evening when his mother was hosting to 15 guests at a dinner party.

Enjoying the gaieties for several days were Dr. and Mrs. Bernard Wolff, who were at their mother's cottage on East Beach at St. Simons, and who returned home Monday.

NEWS CONTINUES to arrive from Atlanta belles concerning their plans for the spring holidays. Caroline McCleskey, who is a popular student at Hollins College in Virginia, is planning a motor trip instead of returning to her native heath for Easter.

The attractive schoolgirl daughter of the Dugas McCleskeys, accompanied by Martha Pearce, of Indianapolis, leaves Friday for Richmond, after which she will visit Williamsburg and Charleston, stopping en route to be the guest of former Hollins students.

Martha, who is a former Hollins student, will be pleasantly remembered from previous visits to Caroline, her last visit having been last summer.

WITH THE faltering approach of spring, the fancies of numerous attractive young men have turned to love, resulting in their rumored betrothals today. Can you guess who they are?

The first victim of this contagious form of spring fever is a brunet newspaperman, who will wed a petite and pretty resident of Athens in June. Like her fiancée, the bride-to-be attended the University of Georgia, and the announcement of the engagement will enlist the sincere interest of a host of friends.

The second groom-to-be hails from a South Carolina city famous as a locale for runaway marriages. His bride-to-be is a stately blonde of this city, formerly of a south Georgia town. She is a graduate of Shorter College, and the wedding will be a social event of early summer. An unusually beautiful solitaire seals the betrothal.

A third has kept "steady company" with the girl of his choice for nearly two years. He is a graduate of the University of Georgia, and has a sister who graduated from the state university last June. She is a recent bride.

The betrothed belle has a sister who became the bride of a westerner last year at a morning ceremony, followed by a reception at the Driving Club. A beautiful diamond solitaire, which has been in the groom-elect's family for a number of years, was slipped upon her slender finger Sunday evening.

Wedding belles are scheduled to ring in the early summer.

Church School
To Hold Bazar
On March 29

Preparations are under way for the elaborate junior bazaar by the All Saints church school which will be held on Friday, March 29, at Eggleston hall. All junior departments will take part in the program, and the entire church is co-operating to make the affair one of the largest staged.

Hugh Saussey is general chairman for the bazaar, and is being assisted by Rev. James L. Duncan, assistant rector of the church. The program will consist of dances and music under the direction of Misses Nancy Keeler and Katherine Dwyer, a house of magic by a group of Tech boys.

Committees are in charge of Misses Sarah Smith, Jane Osburn, Yolande Gwin, Martha Ballou, Sally Prescott, Charlotte Woolford, Bebe Broome, Florence Shultz, Ann Pappenhimer, Louella Stone, Jane Ball and Sims Bray Jr., Tom Hilton, James Hancock, Jack Sands, Howard Harrison, Douglas Acosta and Mrs. Charles Mullings Jr. and Mrs. Henry Powell and others. Other committee chairmen will be announced later.

Patrons named for the affair include Rev. and Mrs. Theodore S. Will, Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Nicholson, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Black, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Morgan, Dr. and Mrs. Lauren Goldsmith, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Dargan Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Marion Blackley, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hatcher, Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Sterne, Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Denton, Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Ballard, Mesdames William H. Kiser, Harry Atkinson, Catin Prescott, C. Boyd Woolford and others.

There will be vaudeville acts, country store and features planned by the Young People's Service League. Gift shops and prize games will also feature the evening's program.

nie Greene, on Franklin road, in compliment to bride-elect Mary Frances Wilson, she will introduce an innovation in entertainment.

Showers gifts for Mary Frances will be concealed in a huge tub frosted to resemble a delectable wedding cake. The tub will be borne into the drawing room, where guests will be seated, by a bridal couple in miniature, the roles to be enacted by the hostess' little brother, Johnnie, and little Jane Moseley. Johnnie will appear quite formal in his dark suit with a white carnation boutonniere, while the little bride will be demure in white satin and tulle. The wedding march will be played by one of the guests for the entrance of the children.

In the dining room, the table will feature a miniature wedding scene, complete with tiny china bride and groom and bridal personnel.

Mary Frances will become the bride of Calvin McMillan in the near future. Saturday's hostess, you know, is the former Imogene Greene, who enjoyed wide popularity as a belle of this city prior to her marriage last year.

Preceding the shower, the bride-elect will compliment her bridesmaids at a luncheon to take place at 12:30 o'clock at the Georgian Terrace hotel. Covers will be placed for Lucy Lester, Frances Waite, of Birmingham, Ala.; Martha Williams, Jacqueline Partain, Mrs. Luther Oullian, and Mrs. James Decker, of St. Louis, Mo.

Mrs. W. L. Wilson, mother of the hostess, will assist in entertaining.

Johnny Bowers
Honored at Party.

An informal affair of yesterday was the children's party given by Mrs. John O. Bowers at her home on Glenn circle in Decatur, for her young son, Johnny, in celebration of his third birthday.

Easter decorations were used as decorations in the home and on the birthday tables, where a large cake held burning candles. Mrs. M. E. Thompson, of Bowling Green, Ky., assisted her daughter, Mrs. Bowers, in entertaining. Present were Johnny and Betty Green, Virginia Wilson, Pat Rusk and Jimmie Tiller.

Candler at Emory University. Left to right are Mrs. Ned Murphy, Mrs. Robert Whitaker, Mrs. William Warren Jr. and Mrs. Russell Burke. It almost cost M. Horwitz, of 260 Decatur street, $5 to be late for court yesterday, but Superior Court Judge Paul S. Etheridge had a change of heart and ordered the fine remitted. Horwitz, witness in a burglary case, was not in court when the case was called. So they sent a deputy sheriff, who returned with his man 40 minutes later.

Louise Suggs Upsets Miley, 4 and 2, in Augusta Tournament

Call in The Game

by Jack Troy

Sequel SAVANNAH, Ga., March 19.—An item in the paper about Bo McMillan's "unstoppable" play—assistants discovered he had diagrammed 12 men on Indiana's side—is reminiscent of an Atlanta writer's perfect defense.

One year an Atlanta writer put in the paper that a certain team was out to use a 7-2-2-1 defense. But the latest yarn they're spinning about the former Praying Colonel, McMillan, is a sequel to one of last year. The Indiana practice field is not far from a home for the insane.

And the story is that Indiana, starting out with great prospects, had won only two games in seven.

So it happened that McMillan, walking by the home for the insane, noticed an inmate racing around the yard and making imaginary throws.

Stepping over to the fence, McMillan beckoned to the fellow. "What's the idea?" he asked.

"Brother," the inmate responded, "you are looking at one of the greatest passers of modern times."

McMillan thought that over briefly and then responded: "Well, keep in shape. If things don't get better soon, you're going to have an expert receiver."

Good News It's good news to Georgia Tech fans that Red Sanders has been selected as head coach at Vanderbilt.

For a time they were afraid that Bobby Dodd might be lured away from Georgia Tech.

Dodd's intentions were not to leave Tech, but this was not generally known.

The present coaching staff of W. A. Alexander, Dodd and Mack Tharpe is as good as any in America.

They get the most out of the least of any coaching staff. And so it is good news, indeed, to Tech followers everywhere that the triumvirate remains intact.

The Breaks A couple of years ago Wayman Kersieck, pitching for Little Rock, was having a hard time getting started.

And then, starting out on a road trip, he figured he was ready. He felt like he could win a few.

Wayman opened in Chattanooga and lost a 2-1 game.

Little Rock moved on to Atlanta and Onnie Robinson, making his Atlanta debut, beat Kersieck, 1-0. Russ Peters broke a bat as he drove in the winning run.

The Pebbles moved on to Memphis and, in a 10-inning thriller, Kersieck lost again, 3-2.

Kersieck pitched for the Red Sox, Louisville and the Phillies last year. He won only one ball game all year. He won that one with Louisville.

But he is being considered as a starting pitcher with the Crackers. He expects to be ready at the end of the week.

No Cuts Yet A real cut hasn't been made on the Cracker club yet. And that's the tip-off as to the caliber of the squad.

Usually by now at least two cuts would have been made. But the majority of the players brought to the '40 camp are real prospects.

Hence the first cut likely will be made when the Crackers break camp next Monday.

More than the usual number of boys will be taken to Atlanta for the exhibition games. And when the major cut is made clubs with which the Crackers have dealings should profit by the recommendations of players President Mann and Manager Richards will make.

Tubby Walton's 'Finds' Star in Major Leagues

Martin Marion Greatest Pride of Card Scout; John Echols, Harold Epps Other Discoveries.

By CHARLIE ROBERTS.

The buttons have burst from Tubby Walton's vest. The all too ample frame of the St. Louis Cardinal scout of these parts had been quite a strain on said buttons all along. Came pride to swell his chest further, and it was just goodbye buttons.

Hefty Mr. Walton's pride is a result of the fine success achieved by several of the lads he has signed for Boss Branch Rickey during the past few seasons, in addition to some he recommended to the Cardinal head who were turned down and who went on to star for other clubs.

Martin Marion, Atlanta youth, who is expected to be the Cards' regular shortstopper this year, is Tub's greatest pride and joy. John Echols, whom Ray Blades kept on the Cardinal bench as a pinch runner and hitter last year, and who is expected to be a great aid to the Card pennant bid this year, is another Walton protégé of whom he is proud. "I signed two of 24 Blades will retain, and that isn't a bad average for this old country boy," enthuses the big fellow.

STAR AT HOLSTON. Then there is Harold Epps, Athens, Ga.'s slugging outfielder, who led the Texas league in triples for the Houston Card farm club last year. Yep, Tub signed him, too.

Of the prospects he signed last year Tubby gets the bigger thrill out of the performances of Charlie Brumbelee and Dick Osborne, the baby—220-pound baby—of Tiny Osborne's clan. Both gave great ground performances in their freshman years, and much is expected of them this year. Brumbelee is with Rochester in the International and Osborne will hang his glove in the Columbus, Ga., clubhouse between games.

Brumbelee, with Merita Baker, who in 1938, burned up the Eastern Shore loop with Cambridge, Md., last year, his first in pro ball. At one time he won ten straight, was transferred to Rochester at the end of the season, where he continued his winning ways. Charlie always had a great fast one, and Tub credits his Cambridge manager, Rusty Lucas, with teaching him to throw a curve that is as good as little Bobby Durham's. Bobby's was tops, and that is praise in any language.

NEVER CAN TELL. Walton confides he thought some of the other rookies would be better than Brumbelee, "which goes to prove you never can tell about these youngsters." What did Charlie have the others didn't? "Confidence and lots of it, and, to PUTTING TELLS.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 19.—

If the puts go "plunk" into the cup on the first three holes today, it may be the warning that Samuel Jackson Snead is off to the wars again. Everything else is there—condition, confidence, the shots from tee to green—but the puts haven't been dropping and Snead hasn't been winning.

be perfectly frank, plenty of what the boys in the back room call "chittins." That and hard work developed Charlie fast."

Walton, who is taking a new crop of youngsters to the Cards' big concentration camp at Columbus this week, also is pleased to note Harold Blackstock, another Atlanta youth whom he recommended to Rickey but who was refused and later signed by Cincinnati, is expected to fill the shortstop berth for Birmingham in the Southern this season. Tubby is confident Rickey will eventually rue the day he passed up the peppery infielder.

DOROTHY KIRBY IS EASY WINNER OVER CRUM, 7-5

Suggs Plays Bauer Today; Dot To Meet Helen Dettweiler.

By DOROTHY KIRBY.

FOREST HILLS, AUGUSTA, Ga., March 19.—The sensation of the first round of the Augusta tournament today was the defeat of Marion Miley by Louise Suggs, 16-year-old Lithia Springs, Ga., girl. Louise won by 4 and 2. I was just feeling sorry for her before the match because she always caught a hard one in the first round, but my sympathy was wasted, for she came through in fine style in her match today. She was all even with Marion at the turn and had par on the last two holes for a 36 on the incoming nine. So a 36 would have been hard for anybody to beat.

Marion was having trouble with her short game, which failed her time and again. Louise, on the other hand, was hitting the ball well.

She has accomplished quite a feat. In her first try this year she caught Patty Berg in the first round in Miami and put up a swell game against her; and now on the next effort she beats one of the best golfers of today by a decisive margin. I would say that she should be right proud at this point.

MEETS JEAN BAUER.

Tomorrow Louise meets Jean Bauer. Jean has been playing good golf, but if Louise hits that ball as she knows how, Jean had better take notice.

The first round of match play brought forth some close scores, which is unusual on the first day. To begin with, Jane Cothran had trouble in eliminating Mrs. Hailey but finally succeeded by 2 and 1. Jane was very much peeved at herself after it was all over. She said that she was missing all of the short putts that could have been kicked in. This never helps either. Putting is usually Jane's best forte. Tomorrow she meets the medalist, Grace Amory, who won without too much effort.

I was very well pleased to get by Jane Crum by 7 and 5. However, Jane didn't play the golf of which she is capable, so it made things easier for me. I did so better than yesterday, for I went out in 38 and did fairly well on the back side. If I could only get my irons going like I want them!

It seems that as fast as I get one part of my game down something else pops up that is wrong. As the old saying goes, "It ain't never nothing."

In the second round I play Helen Dettweiler, a match to which I am not looking forward. Helen is hitting the ball rather well and is a good match player. We have never met in all of the tournaments that we have played in together. I'll have to get out in the morning before we go off and get my weapons sharpened for her, for I'll ever more need them.

Mrs. Page Increases Mid-South Lead.

SOUTHERN PINES, N. C., March 19.—(P)—Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page, of Chapel Hill, increased her lead in the mid-south women's golf tournament to 14 strokes by firing a 75 today to go with her opening round 76 of yesterday.

Runner-up to the former national champion's 151 was Deborah Verry, of Worcester, Mass., who got an 82 today.

Johnny Rucker Is Slated To Start Season In Center Field for Giants; Hitting Well

SUGGS CUTS LOOSE—Louise Suggs, of Lithia Springs, really cuts loose on a golf ball. The little 16-year-old sensation has to do that for distance. Yesterday, she impressed Marion Miley with her game, defeating the nationally known Kentuckian, 4 and 2, in the Augusta tournament. This picture tells the story of how Louise hits the ball. Her father, Johnny Suggs, former Atlanta pitcher, taught her to take a real cut at the ball.

HOGAN LEADER IN NORTH-SOUTH

Ben Ties Cooper's Competitive Course Record With 66.

By BILL BONL.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 19.—

Ben Hogan, 140 compact pounds of Texas-born golf pro, came within six inches of setting a new competitive course record today when he shot a six-under-par 66 that gave him the first-round lead in the north-south open golf championship by a margin of three strokes.

Hogan, who plays out of White Plains, N. Y., came to the 17th tee of Pinehurst's testing No. 2 course needing two pars for that 66. He put all of his considerable power into a well-hit iron shot that dropped the ball onto the green, 186 yards away, 15 feet hole-high to the right.

Sinking that putt would have put him seven under par. But Benny babied it a bit, and the ball dropped six inches short. He got his par three there and par four on the finisher, and thus tied the competitive course mark set up in the second round of last year's tournament by Harry Cooper.

Hogan, who stands second in the list of the season's money winners, came in three shots ahead of another little man, Paul Runyan. The former P. G. A. champion and 1935 north-south winner, who was among the first to tee off, put together a fine 69 that stood up until Hogan came home late in the afternoon.

Altogether, 16 pros and one amateur bettered the No. 2 course's par of 72. The Simon-pure was Bobby Dunkelberger, of High Point, N. C., who posted a neat 71 in spite of a seven on one hole, and even so had only a one-stroke lead over the next ranking amateur, George Dunlap. The former national amateur champion had a 72.

"Bob Jones should become the Landis of pro golf," Gene Sarazen suggests. And we think it is the best recommendation the Little Sardinie ever made.

Sarazen made the suggestion in a letter to his friend, Ralph McGill, executive editor of The Constitution.

"The golf tournaments are going over bigger than ever," Gene wrote. "Fred Corcoran (P. G. A. tournament manager) is doing a swell job. But it remains to be seen what the future holds."

"I am afraid too many golf events encourage too many boys to hitch-hike around the country and become golf bums. At the end of the season only three or four are out of the red, the rest are on the borrowing list."

You hear a lot about tennis bums, but not so much about golf bums. The setup in the games accounts for the difference. In tennis, the term is usually applied to amateurs. In golf, most of those who rate the title are pros, although a few amateurs might fall into that classification after investigation.

Although Sarazen does not mention in the same breath the plan for a golf czar and the fact that kids are crawling out on a limb with their traveling on a shoestring, the sore spot and the cure are there.

Sarazen thinks something should be done about those kids. No doubt, he knows of many other things in pro golf that would stand correcting.

It is an interesting suggestion, a good one.

Bob Jones might not want the position. It might be that he would not be able to accept it.

Any one interested, write Coach J. Owen Huntsman.

54-HOLE A.W.G.A. PLAY POSTPONED

Blackman and Swinney Take Class A Prizes in Putting Competition.

The Atlanta Women's Golf Association's 54-hole ringer tournament, which started out as a three-day event a couple of weeks ago, was postponed again yesterday.

It was decided not to play the second round at Druid Hills because the course was wet from Monday night's rain.

The women did play practice rounds and compete for putting prizes. Winners in the putting were:

Class A. Mrs. E. H. Blackman and Mrs. Claude Swinney. Class B. Mrs. A. J. Kaiser and Mrs. George Griffin Jr. Class C. Mrs. H. K. Dewees and Mrs. C. D. Fields.

The second round will be played, weather permitting, at Ansley Park next Tuesday.

MANAGER TERRY MAKES DEMAREE PLAY LEFT FIELD

Georgian Gets Nine Hits in First 16 Trips; Has Fielding Faults.

By TOM McRAE.

If you do not take the Times or the Herald-Tribune regularly you might not know Johnny Rucker, the pride of Ponce de Leon and the toast of Crabapple, is slated to start the season in centerfield for the Giants.

What is more remarkable about it is that Frank Demaree, one of four Giants who are considered ball players, will be shifted from centerfield to leftfield. Napoleon Rucker's nephew really must be hustling if he can out a man like Demaree from his position and force him to take refuge on the edge of the lot.

Through Sunday the skinny, long-legged Georgian had made nine hits in 16 times at bat and had made eight of ten in his last three games. He made five straight hits until halted by Spurgeon Chandler, another former Georgia Bulldog.

William Terry thinks Rucker will be ready this season.

Carl Hubbell said this about the Georgia "Gazelle."

Slow Starter.

"Paul Richards, who managed him at Atlanta, told me the boy wouldn't impress us for the first week, but would come along fast after that—and I guess he's got something there."

When Hub says that about a guy it's probably worth clipping out.

Rucker got three hits out of six tries Sunday, all singles. He fumbled one for an error. Some deep-thinking baseball experts were worried whether Rucker will beat out all those scratch hits in the big league that he did in the Southern. One of those hits Sunday was simply a case of Rucker getting to first before the infielder could get the ball over there.

This is what John Drebringer, in the Times, has to say about the Georgia flyer:

"Rucker's improvement also is giving the Giant outlook a far rosier hue than it had during the early days of training...."

Over-Eager.

"Johnny is still over-eager to show his speed in the outfield. He stumbled over another bounding ball today (Sunday). This defect can be remedied easily."

Raymond J. Kelly, sports editor of the Times, wrote this:

"A little too much early pressure seems to have been put on Johnny Rucker.... But the youngster definitely has shown talent."

Crackers Seek Third Straight Against Orioles at Millen Today

ONLY 16 PLAYERS TO MAKE JAUNT: CORTES TO START

Larry Miller Will Relieve in His First Start of Season.

By JACK TROY.
SAVANNAH, Ga., March 19.—Only half the Cracker squad will make the trip to Millen for the third game against the Baltimore Orioles tomorrow.

Manager Paul Richards will take 16 players besides himself and will leave the others here in charge of Pea Green.

Marshall Mauldin will remain behind and it is expected that the young outfielders—Marshall, Suydam and Griffin—will play the majority of the game. Emil Malibo will start in right, with Suydam in left and Marshall in center.

Rene Cortes, who won one and lost none for the Crackers late last season, will open the game. Larry Miller, making his first start of the season, will finish.

Manager Richards will go behind the plate for the first time. Bruce Hedrick is the only other catcher going on the trip.

Hafey, Anderson, Ryan, Burge and Smith are the infielders going. Ryan was back out today after a short illness and showed no ill effects.

The Crackers, two up on the Orioles, hope to make a clean sweep against their double A rivals before resuming the series at Aiken next week.

Millen people will make the game a gala event. Stores are being closed at noon and a banquet for both teams will follow the game.

Thursday the Crackers open a four-game series with the Savannah Indians. Other games are scheduled Friday, Sunday and Monday. The club goes to Waycross for a game on Saturday.

Another day of fine weather greeted the boys today and a man-sized workout was observed.

BIG SHOOT SET HERE SATURDAY

Capitol Gun Club will observe National Wild Life Restoration Week with a special shoot in place of the regular weekly event Saturday. Secretary-Treasurer Bob Autrey announced yesterday.

Fifty-bird skeet and 50-bird 16-yard events will be on the program, which will start at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. All shooters are urged to attend, as the meet is being staged to raise funds for the Wild Life Federation.

An added charge of 50 cents in addition to the regular club fee will be in effect.

Skeet shooting will be in five classes, and as many classes will be held in traps as is necessary. The complete program will be announced later.

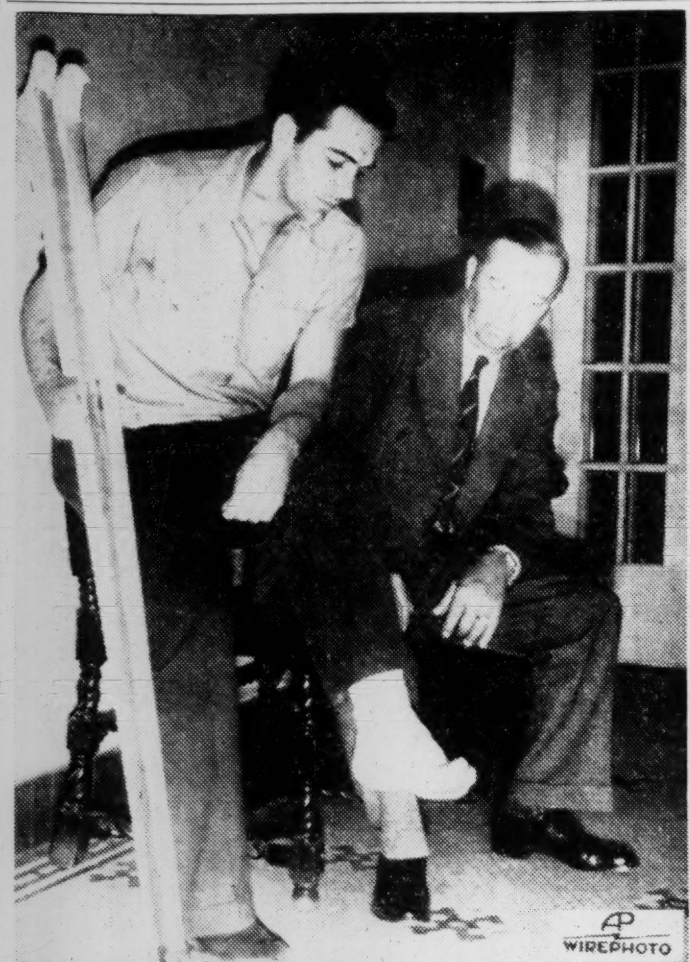

The National Wild Life Federation gives chevrons to every participant, and honor award chevrons are given to every winner. Last year more than 1,000 shooters participated in the events in 37 states.

Election and reorganization meeting of the Capitol Gun Club will be held the first week in April.

Godoy Rated Above Tony on Heavy List

Zale, Atlanta Boy's Opponent March 29, Is Placed No. 2 by N. B. A.

By THAD HOLT.
Ben Brown, 22-year-old Atlanta boxer, is within punching distance of the middleweight title. In its quarterly rankings released yesterday, the National Boxing Association listed Sam Sobel's meal ticket as No. 3 title contender.

Celestino Garcia and Al Hostak are sort of co-champions. And right there in the No. 1 challenger's position is Ken Overlin, whom Brown has fought four times, losing two decisions and gaining two draws.

Just ahead of Ben in the No. 2 spot is Tony Zale, whom Brown fought March 29 in Chicago, which means that, should Ben come through to win, he will be in position to demand an early shot at the championship. This Chicago bout shapes up as one of the most important in Ben's career. Zale hammered out a decision over Al Hostak recently and will be tough pickings in his own back yard.

Gus Lesnevich, to whom Brown dropped a close decision at Miami two years ago, was ranked No. 1 contender for Billy Conn's lightweight crown.

Significant was the new heavyweight ranking which saw Arturo Godoy, the rubber ball from Chile, replacing Fat Tony Galento as chief contender for Joe Louis crown, a rating based, undoubtedly, on Godoy's recent feat in staying 15 rounds with the Brown Bomber.

Johnny Paycheck, Louis' next victim, was ranked eighth. Bob Pastor is third, Lou Nova fourth, Tommy Farr fifth, and, to show how sad a state the heavyweight situation finds itself, Maxie Baer was ranked the sixth-best heavyweight in the world.

DOWN THE ALLEYS

ATLANTA VS. CHARLOTTE.

Atlanta bowlers and bowling fans will have an opportunity to witness the two outstanding men's bowling teams of the section rolling for the southeastern team championship title and a $1,000 purse, on the downtown Atlanta alleys Saturday, March 23, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, with a team of Charlotte, N. C., bowlers pitted against Atlanta's top average team.

Five games will be bowled in this contest, which ranks as the outstanding team performance that has ever been offered in Atlanta at any time. The $1,000 purse is the largest that has ever been posted in a bowling contest in the southeast.

Six alleys will be screened off from the rest of the downtown center for the match and tickets will be sold for admission to spectators. Reserved seats are offered at $1.50 each, with general admission tickets being sold at $1 each.

The match is being staged under the sponsorship of the Atlanta Kiwanis Club "underprivileged child committee," with the entire receipts of the ticket sale being turned over to the committee for aid of the underprivileged children of Atlanta.

Walter Lawson, who is carrying the highest individual average that an Atlanta bowler has had at this stage of the season in any previous year, with a count of 123, will be captain of the team that will bowl under the Atlanta colors in the match. Alan Liebler, who has boosted his average above the 120 mark, will be a formidable member of the team.

Jack Pearce, Bill Pelot and W. F. Carnera) Lowry round out a team that tips the "bowling average scales" at a combined count of 596. The Charlotte "heavy artillery" pinmen will have Art Kever, twice winner of the John Blick telegraph tournament; Ellis Simpson, winner of the southern tournament here last November; Joe Josephs, Dave Cagle and Augie Klein, all of whom have made great pin records in the Tarheel state.

On combined average the Atlanta team has a two or three-pin advantage, which means the contest should be productive of well-balanced high scoring pinfall. Tickets are on sale at the downtown bowling alleys.

7 Games Scheduled By Marietta Eleven

MARIETTA, Ga., March 19.—Three new teams, Griffin, West Fulton and Decatur, were on the Marietta Blue Devils' football schedule next fall as announced today by Athletic Director J. G. Hollis.

With exception of two open dates, October 25 and November 8, the new schedule is complete. Sept. 27—Richardson High at Richardson. Oct. 4—Fulton High at Marietta. Oct. 11—Griffin High at Griffin. Oct. 18—West Fulton at Marietta. Nov. 1—Dalton High at Dalton. Nov. 15—Newman High at Newman. Nov. 28—Decatur High at Marietta.

Coach Hollis awarded 16 letters to last year's squad at a recent dinner.

On combined average the Atlanta team has a two or three-pin advantage, which means the contest should be productive of well-balanced high scoring pinfall. Tickets are on sale at the downtown bowling alleys.

CRUTCHES FOR BOUDREAU—Lou Boudreau, flashy Cleveland shortstop, tries out crutches after chipping an ankle bone while rounding base in training camp baseball exhibition game. Manager Oscar Vitt looks none too pleased as the infielder faces several weeks on the bench.

He has them registered with the feds just in case he isn't good enough to whip anybody with ideas of snatching 'em. Class A and C Men's Titles and Girls' Divisions To Be Determined in Cage Meet.

Basketball competition for the season will wind up with three champions being crowned Wednesday night when the finals of the fourth annual Greater Atlanta Gold Medal tournament are held at the new Henry Grady gymnasium.

Sewell, which lost to Sears Monday in the double elimination meet, defeated Lithonia, 27 to 17, Tuesday night.

Capitol View Presbyterian, which won the Class B title last year, will play Fidelity and Casuality at 8 o'clock for the Class C men's championship. F. & C. was runner-up in the Atlanta league this year.

The 9 o'clock game will bring together the Sears Men's team and the J. B. Richards Printers in the Class F finals. Sears was second in the Civic league while the Printers campaigned independently this season under the Decatur A. C. colors.

Grady Hospital Directors in Annual Meeting

Caught by the camera in an informal moment last night at the annual meeting of Grady hospital board of directors were Mayor William B. Hartsfield, seated, left; Thomas K. Glenn, chairman, right; Dr. J. M. Beeler, hospital superintendent, standing, left, and Ed L. Almand, Fulton county commissioner.

Grady Announces Sub-Clinics For Outlying Areas of County

New, Fireproof Hospital Is Envisioned for the Near Future.

Establishment of branch clinics to improve health facilities for outlying sections of Fulton county was announced last night at the annual dinner of the Grady hospital board of trustees, attended by Mayor Hartsfield, members of city council and Fulton county commissioners.

The Fulton County Board of Health and Grady hospital are co-operating to extend clinical services, Ed L. Almand, chairman of the board, said. Work of converting the old courthouse at Alpharetta into a clinic already is under way, and other clinics probably will be established within the next few months at East Point, Egan Park, Fairburn and other sections of the county, Almand said.

Mayor Warns of Fire.

Although announcement of new clinics was the outstanding feature of the meeting, Thomas K. Glenn, chairman of the Grady board, visualized a modern, new and fireproof Grady hospital and Battle Hill sanatorium in the near future. He warned a fire might be costly in human lives, and said if the group which attended the dinner would co-operate the new construction "is not nearly as far in the future as one would think."

FARMERS WILL ASK AAA PENALTY RELIEF

Laurens Planters Under U. S. Ban Will Plead Cases Today.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
DUBLIN, Ga., March 19.—Several hundred Laurens county farmers who are still classed as having "knowingly overplanted" their allotment of cotton acreage in 1938 will have one more chance to convince the state AAA administrators of their innocence in the matter, County Agent Harry Edge said today.

Representatives of the Athens office of the AAA—T. R. Breedlove, Robie Gray and J. D. Fields—will be at Edge's office all day Wednesday and Thursday to confer individually with such farmers who are dissatisfied with their status.

A large number of farmers previously classified as "knowingly" exceeding their cotton acreage in 1938 have been relieved of penalties, including loss of conservation payments, but many others are still under the ban.

As a group, the farmers insist they were not given allotments until too late to destroy the surplus acreage.

TRAIL'S END

Ma Russell Asks Rufe Jelks To Move So That Anne May Have His Room

By William MacLeod Raine.

SYNOPSIS. As Jim Silcott, red-headed editor of the Powder Horn Sentinel, sits playing solitaire waiting for a game of draw in the Trail's End in Blanco, Jim Prentiss, foreman of the Hat T ranch, and four of his riders enter. Jud, with his arm hooked under that of the reluctant Jesse Lamprey, Jud accuses Lamprey of double-crossing Russell Mosely, owner of the Hat T, in connection with the Armijo land-grant feud and Jesse is in fear of his life. His younger brother Phil appears and refuses to leave when Jud tells him that he and Jesse have business to discuss. Jud is about to strike Phil when Silcott asks if Mosely's orders include beating up the Sentinel against Mosely in the feud and Jud turns angrily on him. Jim knows he is a marked man but refers to the murder from ambush trail. Bulli that he is Jud turns from Jim and pleads quiet on Lamprey until Jesse falls withering to the floor. Jud and his men leave and it is later that night, just as Anne Elliot alights from the stage coach, that she hears a pistol shot. The red-headed man's hat is whisked from his stooler of a doorway, and as a Hat T man fires from the middle of the wide main street he drops in his tracks. The red-headed man disappears into the building. Somebody yells that Silcott has "let out" and to see whether Buck Sneve is dead. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT IV. He started forward, with long ungainly strides, a street light flung an elongated shadow in front of him. The crash of guns still sounded. The tall gunman stopped, to steady his aim. Before the sound of his revolver had died away an answer rang out from the adobe building. He swayed on his feet, staggered forward a step or two, his knees buckled under him, and he plumped to the ground.

The red-headed man disappeared from the doorway into the house, but none of those who had been firing at him moved from cover. A warning against undue haste lay huddled in the dust.

"Some one go see if Sneve is dead," a voice called from the shadows. Silcott's lit out. He won't hurt you.

"If you're so sure of that why don't you go look at Sneve yourself, Jud?" one of the cowboys who had dived behind the stage wanted to know.

"Hell, I'll take a chance," Pete Yeager said. "Jim Silcott is nobody's fool. He's on his way." The fat little Hat T rider waddled out of the shadows and knelt down beside the prone body. A few moments later he made his report. "Plumb dead. Shot spang through the heart, looks like."

Out of saloons and stores men trickled. They picked up the sprawled figure and carried it into the Trail's End. Yeager looked down at the long body lying on a bench.

"He sure was asking for it," Pete said. "Started the rookus to-night and the rest of us came in to back him."

Prentiss looked at him with sour anger. "What you mean, Buck started it?" Silcott lay in wait for us and plugged Buck before we could stop him. Sure as I'm a foot high I'll get him for this."

Yeager grinned cynically. So that was to be the story. "I meant that Buck was the first one he began shooting at," he explained. Anne walked into the stage office, her long slim legs a little shaky. She sat down on a dry-goods box.

The local manager filled a tin dipper with water and brought it to her. "Sorry you had to see anything so upsetting, lady," he said.

She took a few sips from the dipper. "I was just thinking how quiet and peaceful the town was when—when it happened," she told him.

"So it is most of the time," he explained. "We don't have a killing more than five or six times a year. Of course the boys kick up their heels some after dark, but they don't mean a thing. Just high spirits."

"Is . . . is the man dead?" "I heard someone say he was."

The girl did not discuss the matter further. "My name is Anne Elliot. Can you tell me where the hotel is?"

"Please to meet you, miss. My name is Hilary Benson. I scratched his thumping heart. There was no hotel in town. The principal rooming house was over the Jumbo saloon, but it was no place for a lady. All night long an inferno of noise rose from the dance hall. "Ma Russell runs a boarding house. I dunno whether she is full up or not. I'll take you round there."

"If it isn't too much trouble, Mr. Benson."

Anne was agreeably surprised at Mrs. Russell. She was a good-looking plump woman who radiated health and friendliness. Though all her rooms were taken she at once said she would find a place for Anne.

"I'll make Rufe Jelks move over to the Jumbo," she said. And she added, slanting a look at the girl, "Will you be staying long? I mean, will you want the room some time?"

"I'm not quite sure," Anne answered. "I haven't made up my mind. And I don't like to drive another lodger from you."

The landlady made nothing of that. "Rufe is in town only a few days, and he doesn't care where he sleeps. But you can't stay at the Jumbo. Some crazy drunk is likely to start shooting up the street in the night."

"They don't always wait for night, do they?" Anne suggested. "You were there when Beck Sneve was killed?" Mrs. Russell said quickly.

"Yes. It was just as the stage got in. Do you know what it was about?"

"Oh, about the land grants, I suppose. The feeling is bitter because so many people's property is involved. If it is any comfort to you, Buck Sneve was a bad man. He deserved what he got. Red had to kill him to save himself."

"Yes, I saw that," Anne did not know why, but from the first moment she had seen the lift of the red head she had been on his side.

Mrs. Russell led the way upstairs to a bedroom that Anne liked at once. The rag carpet, the chintz curtains and the big comfortable armchair gave it a homey look. And it was immaculately clean. Mrs. Russell called to a man and asked him to send Rufe up.

The attractive young cowboy presented himself with a wide grin. As soon as he knew why he had been called he offered to vacate immediately. Girls as pretty as Anne did not come his way often, though he would have given up the room to any woman who needed it.

"I'll take my war bag out right now and have your grips sent over from the stage office," he told her. She thanked him, a smile in her soft eyes reminded Rufe of wood panies and gave him ideas about his future.

He was back in record time with her bags. The trunk would be over later, he promised. Anne bathed and changed in time to make a later appearance at the supper table. She was a little dismayed to observe that though the long table was filled the occupants were all men.

Anne sat between Mrs. Russell and Rufe Jelks. Most of those at the table were brown boyish cowboys in from the range for a day or two. An exception was the man sitting opposite her, who wore well-made city clothes and had a cold impassive face almost colorless. Anne caught his name as Kroelling when he was introduced.

The girl was aware that her entrance had put a damper on the conversation. She had been talking about the shooting on Main street. It was the old news of the day and might be the precursor of even more important developments, but out of deference to the young lady they did not want to discuss it in her presence.

She had been a witness, and her nerves might be unstrung. Only Kroelling and Rufe Jelks helped Mrs. Russell and Anne carry the talk. The professional gambler asked the newcomer how she liked the town.

"How could she like it when she hadn't been here three minutes before there was gun trouble right before her eyes?" Mrs. Russell asked severely. "Such goings on ought to be stopped, if we expect decent people to stay here."

"That's right, ma'am . . . Sure . . . Y'betcha."

The chorus of approval was unanimous. But the landlady was not deceived as to its value.

"Every last one of you carries a gun all the time," she snapped. "Not in town, Ma," protested the black-haired puncher when Anne had dispossessed, with the manner of one who has been most unjustly accused. "I done parked mine at the Trivoli when I blew in. Course I got to have one for rattlers outside."

Mrs. Russell looked at him sharply over her glasses. "Rufe Jelks, you're not loading me any. I've known you since you were knee-high to a duck. You and your side partner, Jim Silcott, are a pair of the wildest cots in this territory."

Rufe looked as innocent as a choir boy. "We've reformed, ma'am. Now we've grown up we've put away childish things."

The landlady's grunt was eloquent of doubt.

Talk died down again, except for undertones among the men. Topics that would include Miss Elliot were few. They could not ask her where she came from nor what she was doing in this raw town, nor how long she expected to stay. For the first article in the unwritten book of manners of the old west was that a stranger must not be asked personal questions. Too many residents had come out one jump ahead of the law.

After supper Anne asked Mrs. Russell where the office of the "Powder Horn Sentinel" was. "I'd like to walk down there this evening," she added.

"I'll get some one to show you where it is," the landlady said, and she stepped out to the porch. Her eye fell on Rufe Jelks.

"Do you think you can take a young lady down to the office of the 'Sentinel' and bring her back safely?" she asked.

His face lit. "Oh lady, try me."

On the way to the office Anne gathered information. This was a cattle country, though there was a good deal of mining in the hills. The big outfit, she learned, was the Hat T, owned by Russ Mosely, though there were a good many other much smaller ranches but of fair size. It was a fine country for those who liked the high plains.

"What is that land-grant feud I heard about?" Anne asked.

"It's a long story which goes back to the old Spanish days when the King of Spain gave great grants of land, through his governor, to grantees who were supposed to have served the country in war. A grant covering a big part of this district was given to Don Jose Gandara, who by what I hear was quite a guy. He had money enough to burn a wet mule, and he fed at his different rancheros hundreds of vaqueros and servants every day. Seems Gandara didn't put much stock in this little gift of a million acres more or less. Those were free and easy days, and a man didn't fool much with recording his deeds and that sort of thing. He just stuck 'em in a box and forgot about it. The story is that Gandara slept on his rights."

What today means to you if you were born between:

March 21st and April 19th (ARIES)—Today may be called a treacherous day, for a feeling of resentment and opposition surrounds new beginnings. You may want to throw back to the wind, so the day does not appear suspicious to take a definite stand on anything.

April 20th and May 20th (TAURUS)—The entire day and until 7:03 p. m. fills you with a greater social attitude toward others, so there should be harmony in dealing with the public. After 7:03 p. m. you will encounter more obstructions, and should guard against going to extremes in any way.

May 21st and June 20th (GEMINI)—The day does not favor making important changes until 9:29 a. m. After 9:29 a. m. and continuing until 8:12 p. m. is more favorable for new undertakings, publicity, correspondence. Oct. 23rd and Nov. 21st (LIBRA)—Previous to 2:40 p. m. avoid confusion and entering into anything that is vague or disturbing. The remainder of the afternoon and evening is most auspicious for attending to affairs that have already been started.

Oct. 23rd and Nov. 21st (SCORPIO)—Instead of others working with you today, the tendency is likely to be that others will take the opposite viewpoint from your own. An important work or routine matters will bring greater satisfaction.

Nov. 22nd and Dec. 21st (SAGITTARIUS)—This should be a favorable day for any interest. You will sense a feeling of permanency in your transactions, which will allow you to plan conservatively, work diligently and find harmony. The entire day is favorable.

In the variety half-hour of the program from Hollywood, the Star Theater will bring Master of Ceremonies Ken Murray, Kenny Baker, Frances Langford, Irene Ryan and David Broekman's orchestra to the audience.

ALLEN—Fred Allen will be hunting for when he interviews Captain C. R. W. Knight, said to be the world's outstanding authority on falconry, as his "Person You Didn't Expect To Meet" during his program to be heard over WSB at 8 o'clock tonight.

Rounding out the hour-long entertainment of mirth and melody will be Portland Hoffa, Harry von Zell, the Mighty Art Players, Songstress Wynne Murray, the Merry Macs Swing Quartet, and Peter Van Steeden and his orchestra.

COMEDY—"In the spring, a young man's fancy" and why should Al Pearce and his Bang be any exception? Having thus decided, they will salute the vernal season and use it as the theme of their program during its broadcast to be heard over WGST at 7 o'clock tonight.

Pearce as Elmer Blurt, Artie Auerbach, Carl Hoff, Blanche Stewart, Mel Blanc and Phil Kramer will concentrate their comedy on the spring theme, while Arlene Harris's monologue will center around a visit to a sick friend.

DRAMA—The Hollywood Playhouse will provide holiday fare during its broadcast to be heard over WSB at 7 o'clock tonight when a radio adaptation of "The Passing of the Third Floor Back" from the play by Jerome K. Jerome, is presented.

Unrest, avarice and jealousy combine to tow the seeds of discord in a London boarding house until the gentle, ministering touch of a stranger puts doubt and deception to route and opens the gateway to new vistas of spiritual beauty.

Asks To Be Jailed.

Deputy Sheriff Bill High has a game he plays with a Carlsboro, N. M., Negro named Jimmie, who has a weakness for strong drink.

"Hello, Mistah High," says a voice on the telephone to Bill. "This is Jimmie and I'm drunk again. Will you come get me and put me to jail?"

"Sure will, Jimmie," says Deputy Sheriff Bill. "Be right over. Where are you?"

While Bill is en route, Jimmie changes his mind. He tries to hide. But his condition makes it an easy game of fox-and-goose.

"Ready to go, Jimmie," asks Bill when he catches up.

"Yessuh, Mistah High, yassuh. But you all sure got here in a powful hurry."

"Sure will, Jimmie," says Deputy Sheriff Bill.

Easter Parade of Fashion

The Men Are Ready for Easter; It's Hats On! For the Parade

By YOLANDE GWIN.

Are you the type of man who puts on your hat by a process of sheer instinct and then says, "Let's go, I'm ready?"

You are lucky, men. Your hats are not quite as complicated or as fussy as the Little Woman's, but just the same they need to be placed on the head right, even though they sometimes look as if they made a forced landing.

Hats are not just for tipping purposes, and to leave with the pretty blond hat-check girl at your favorite night spot or club.

The well-dressed man must have twelve hats. Hats must top off his Easter outfit and be the tops, too! Don't think of buying a hat without giving yourself a full view effect before the mirror. A close-up with the new felt may make you look like a blond edition of Clark Gable, but from a distance you still want that same effect, so choose your hat, and buy one that will have a disarming effect on the Little Woman.

If you are going to dinner—when she will wear a long dinner dress, but you will not dress—you simply must not wear a snap brim felt. You would save that for sports or for informal affairs. Instead wear the welt edge felt, but always with the brim turned up. This type gets by for business, too.

But, remember, if you do dress for dinner, a black tie affair—a soft black hat is permitted and an opera hat, but never, never a derby or a colored felt. And with white tie and tails a man needs a topper.

Today when you buy your spring hat, keep in mind how well scotch and soda get along together. That is the way you and your hat should be. You must be so satisfied with your hat that you will want to keep it on when you are getting ready for bed.

These pictures were made in Atlanta with Atlanta models and the merchandise was furnished by Atlanta merchants from regular stocks.

Easter Street Scene Staged for 1940 Presentation To Feature Feminine Fashions Styled for Beauty, Chic

Leonid V. Skvirsky Captures the Beauty of Modern Fashions

"Easter street scene"—1940 style play is almost ready!

It will all be done with fashion slides—easy on the eyes and with a blend of the gaiety of your spring mood.

Milady will appear in smart suits, dresses, ensembles, decorated hats, for pretty is as pretty does.

Fashions depicted on this page by Atlanta models are being featured by leading merchants in this city for the Easter parade.

Glamour and femininity will take leading roles in the Easter scene—a scene which will last all day next Sunday.

It may be a street scene for Sunday, a one-day stand, as it were, but repeat performances all through the spring with different costumes are on the schedule.

Dame Fashion is a most tyrannical ruler. She is mistress of actors and actresses all over Atlanta. She makes them change clothes. She decides new ones for them. She is the world's most fickle woman. She discards one fashion for another one at a rapid pace.

Her 1940 tableau will be the most brilliant and the most colorful in years. Remember that men, women and children will be on the Easter stage. Remember, too, that clothes will make you a "vision" or a "sight."

There are a lot of pitfalls in the Easter parade and yesterday's fashions are today's discards. So choose wisely and well.

Get your clothes to suit your type. Your first appearance must be striking in order to attract attention and admiration. Your spring success depends on the clothes you wear on the Easter stage.

Accessories will play a big part in the costuming of the "Easter Street Scene."

A bag in the hand is worth two in the store—so buy one today.

If you are to go hand in hand with your favorite person, your gloves must not be just gloves—they must be shirred-bi-colored and gay. —Y. G.

Hats must be saucy this season. They must be pretty and decorative and they must go to your head. The model pictured here will be smart south of the border as well as along Peachtree. She has a definite flair for wearing hats such as the "feminized sombrero." All photos on this page by Leonid Skvirsky.

The Well-Dressed Man Makes The Most of His Personality

A famous Frenchman once said, "The style is the man himself!"

Men must have fashions the same as the women. His appearance is his most powerful letter of introduction.

Good-looking and becoming clothes have a psychological effect on men.

Buy your clothes with ease, with taste, and with a confidence that you are the master. It is 1940. Good-looking clothes for men have never been more accentuated, more discussed and more popular.

Just imagine what you will wear Easter. Then think what the beau of the 14th century wore. It follows:

Long pointed shoes, fastened to the knees by gold or silver chains; hose of one color on one leg and another color on the other. A coat, the one-half white and the other in black and blue. A long silk band buttoned under the chin embroidered with grotesque figures. This was the height of fashion in the reign of Edward III.—Y. G.

The well-dressed man will notice first how the crown and his face get along. Also the brim. If his face is thin, he will keep it on the narrow side, and wider if full faced. The farther back he snaps the brim of a felt the wider it appears.
